The anticipation of events for the high school career sets off a spark which ignites enthusiasm from the beginning of the freshmen year until graduation night. The spirit of CCHS encourages participation and support of the school's sports and activities, not only in group successes, but in individual achievements as well. This encouragement for each other helps to unite all students to form the CCHS body.

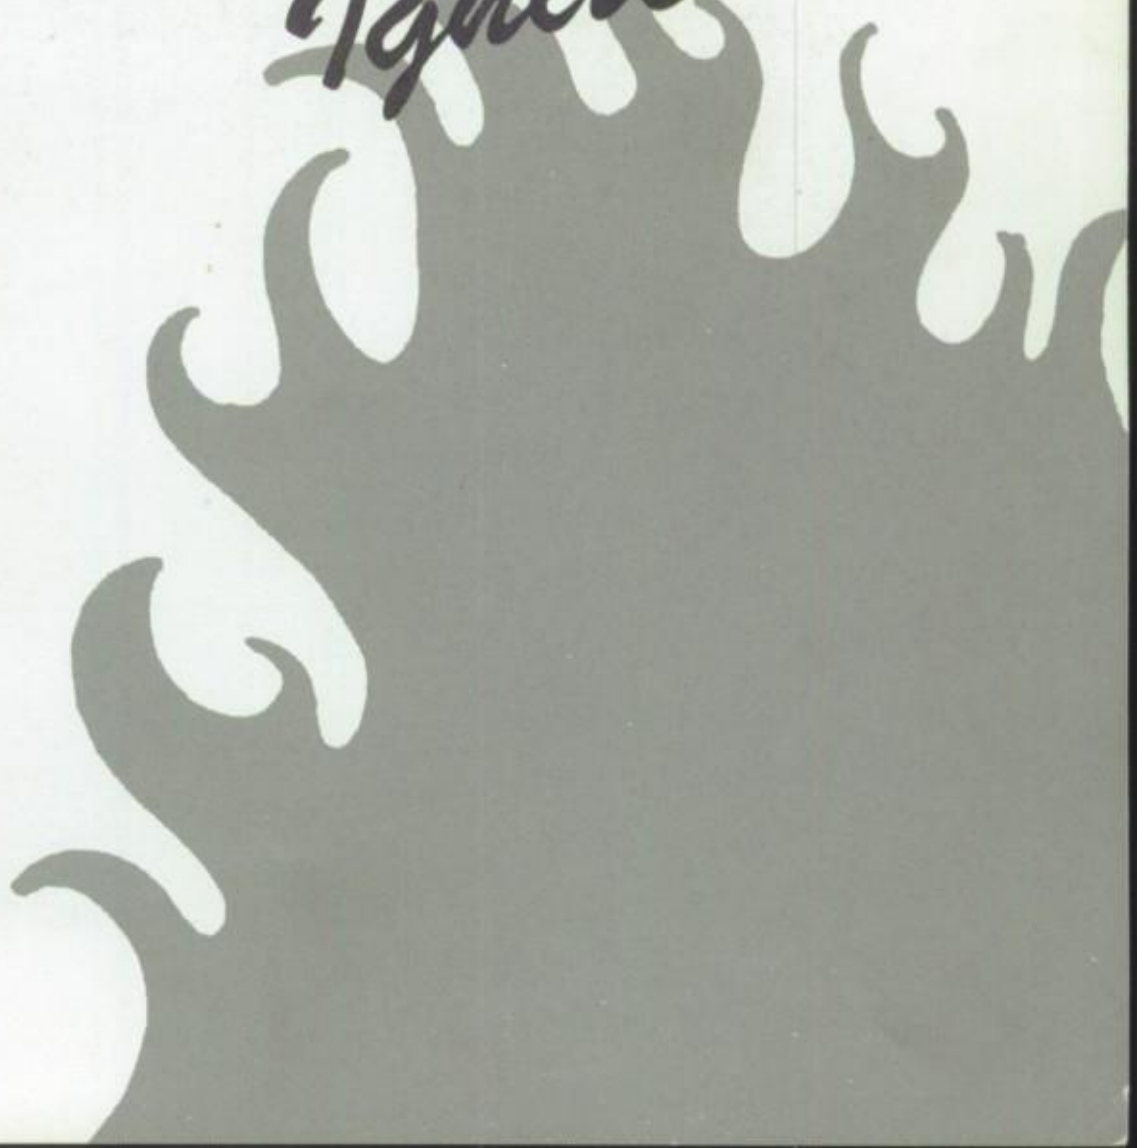

Perhaps the unity also comes from the drive for all students to make the most of their four years. In order to reach the goals which have been set, we should face each with open enthusiasm and let...

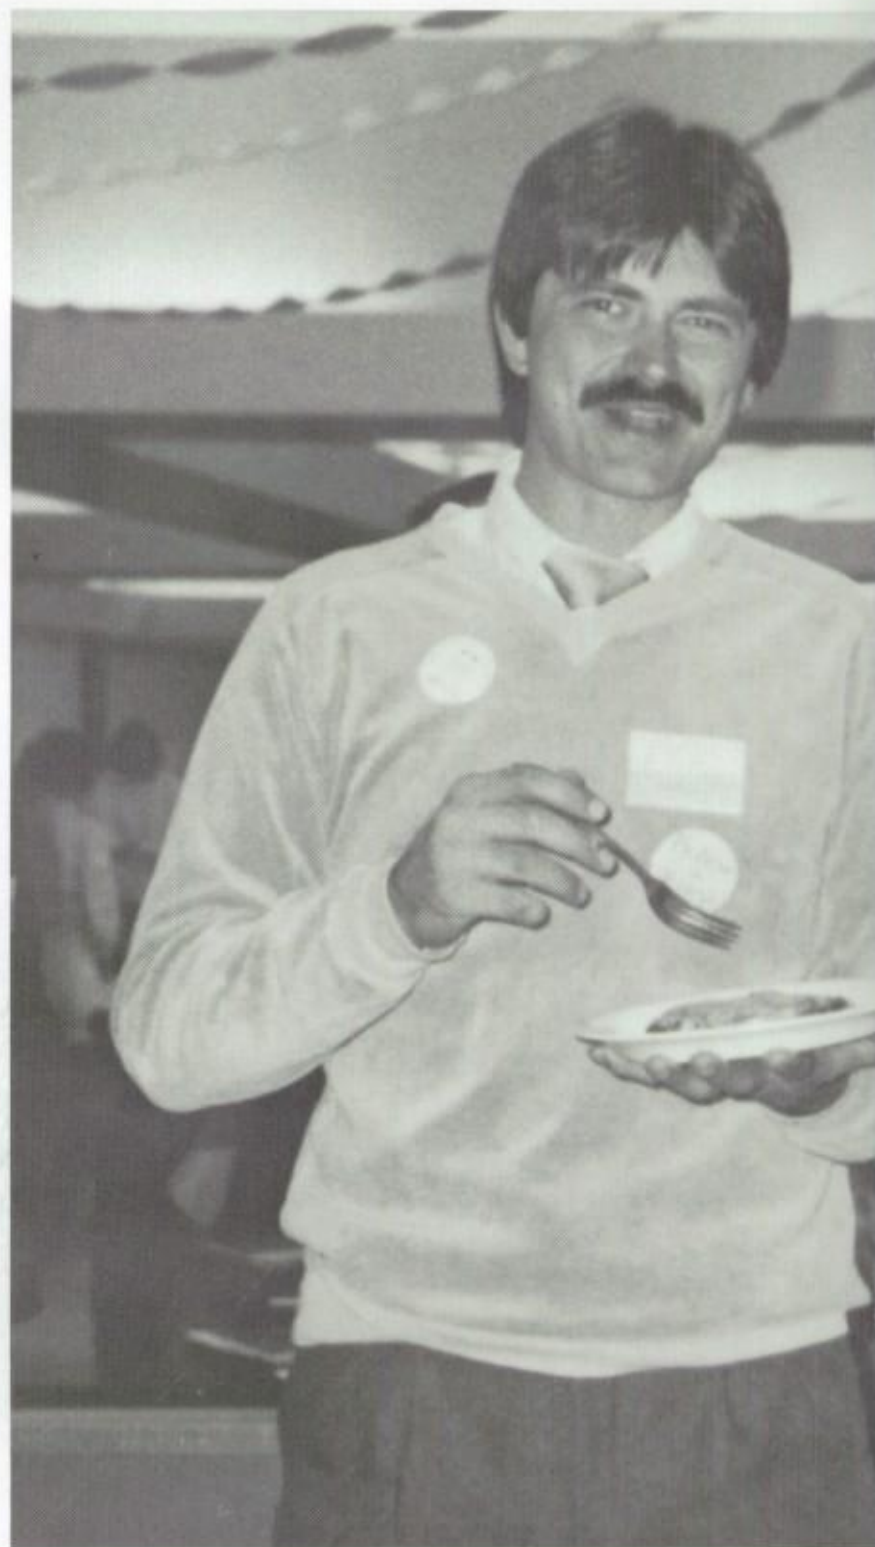

*The Spirit
Ignite*

Everyone knows a Central Cambria student. They're easy to pick out. They are the people with enthusiasm, with school pride, with school spirit shining in everything they do. And just as the students are filled with spirit, so are the faculty and administration bubbling with pride in their school.

Spirit follows the people of Central Cambria everywhere. Whether they're cheering at a game or raising money for local charities or simply going through the motions of a typical school day, Red Devils do what they do with class and pride. Devils have a certain enthusiasm about being a C.C. Devil, and that's what really sets our school on fire!

Red Hot Faces

Red colors your face. Your stomach flutters with butterflies. You want connections on the U.S.S. Enterprise so a "Beam me up, Scotty," could zip you from this dilemma.

Humiliation causes anguish for many students.

"I was using the bathroom in the boys' locker room, and I looked over my shoulder and saw two girls standing there!" Rick Bauer said.

No matter how devastating humiliation is at the time, the red fades, and the butterflies die. After all, the ordeal that drew tears brings future laughs.

Jim Tsikalas recreates his most embarrassing moment when he fell backwards off his chair in the commons.

Hot Wheels

As you're driving through the mall parking lot Friday night, the sounds of radios blaring and horns honking fill the air. All the people in this scene have one thing in common: they are students experiencing the thrill of having a driver's license.

"My friend and I were stopped at a stoplight next to a van. As the guy in the van looked over at us, I squirted him in the eye with a squirt gun. He jumped out of the van and tried to take the gun away from me," commented senior Kelly Tsikalas about her funniest moment while driving.

Karen Dupin, along with Lori Guinivan, prepare to drive with Max Pavlovich. Before actually driving with Mr. Pavlovich, students must drive in the simulators.

Late Spark Sets Freshmen Sales

How would you like to win a portable stereo or a musical keyboard? Once again, the freshmen got the chance to "show their stuff" while supporting their class through the annual Magazine Sale. This year's sales got off to a rough start, but eventually the class raised $3700 for the next four years. Of course, the sellers received various prizes. But perhaps the greatest prize was the one Chris Reese shared. "My favorite was the pizza party my home-room [DIO] won for raising the most money."

Rick Emerson, Ruth Ann Gray, Michele Gerycz, Bruce Schweitzer, and Chris Reese proudly display their prizes from the freshmen magazine sales.

Unity Warms Home

Jill and Jennifer Byers do homework with their foster sister Jeannie Higgins. After a short adjustment period, the girls felt like real sisters.

OK, so the Cosbys and the Keatons don't go to school at CCHS. Although none of the families we know are having their lives written into screenplays, some are unique.

Take, for instance, the Byers family. This summer, after consulting daughters Jill and Jennifer, Mr. and Mrs. Byers began to care for foster children. Now the family includes Tammy Chenicky, Candy Coppersmith, and Jeannie Higgins.

"At first we fought, but it's better now. They're my family and I'm defensive if someone picks on them," said Jennifer about the adjustments this extended family forced on her. She added, "In all, we're just a regular family."

What's Hot?

The word of the year: Denim! Skirts, acid-washed, black, overalls, -- as long as it was denim, it didn't matter. To go with the denim, anything oversized would work. The variations went from oversized sweatshirts to tie-dyed T-shirts. Guys kept the casual look with their denim jackets and colored high-tops. They topped their style with a new hairstyle started by football players: shaved sides and a buzzed top. The look made it big with the guys, especially one in particular. "Totally cool!" was how Bobby Coposky labeled his 'do.

Girls, on the other hand, dressed the outfit up with large jewelry and bulky gymbags. "This is the coolest look we've had in a while," remarked Amy Swetland.

Kelli Chiappini and Bob Coposky are the epitome of fashion with acid washed jeans and whitewall haircut.

Freshmen Psyche Up

The first day of high school is very similar to the first day of kindergarten. Everyone is afraid of getting lost, making new friends, getting mean teachers, or getting their lockers open. Some people even have troubles with all of them combined! Freshman Theresa Swope said, "I was mostly afraid of whether the upperclassmen would accept me, and I ran to every class because I thought I would be late." Adjusting to high school may be hard for some, but next year's first day of school is always better. Consider the seniors, who may have to look forward to another rough first day: at college.

Brett Kerr is the typical "little lost freshman" who had problems during his first days in the high school.

Faculty Enlightens Students

The 1987-88 school year brought many new faculty faces to CCHS. The Math and Science departments were enriched by the additions of Mr. Barry Smoyer and Mr. James Fryzlewicz, who temporarily replaced Mr. Kayden for half of a year. Returning to CCHS, Ms. Diana Burda taught writing and advanced English classes. Mr. Richard Murray, a substitute for Miss Fara-baugh, will be remembered for initiating CC's SADD chapter. Mrs. Judy Toth, an IU8 teacher, also joined the staff. These newcomers accompanied the veteran staff in nurturing all students and preparing them for their future endeavors.

School dances were just one of the many school functions that students and faculty members attended and enjoyed together. Mr. Lutz, Student Council advisor, shares a lighter moment with Student Council members, Ruth Kline and Tammy Hrapchak.

Administration Sparks Excellence

The administration of Central Cambria School District consists of the Superintendent, Assistant Superintendent, the Director of Elementary Education, and the Business Manager. To help make their offices more efficient, these people have secretaries to assist them. Another big part of the administration is the School Board, who, along with the other school officials, approve budgets, hire employees, and approve employee leaves from school.

First row: Mrs. Carol Gormish, Bookkeeper; Mrs. Judith Ball, Business Manager; Mrs. Donna Rupert, Superintendent's secretary.
Second row: Joseph Swerbinsky, Director of Elementary Education; Joseph DeRubis, Assistant Superintendent; Dr. Philip Evans, District Superintendent.

Office Personnel: Sure-fire Staff

The C.C.H.S. administration basically consists of main office workers, the guidance office, and the dietician. The main office controls the attendance and budget decisions for the high school.

The guidance office staff schedules students and helps them make career decisions. It is Mrs. Cannonie's responsibility to plan nutritious and delicious meals for the students. Without these personnel, the school would not be able to function.

Jules Dill, assistant principal; Leroy Debastiani, principal.

GUIDANCE COUNSELORS: Miss Faye Brown and Leonard Orange.

SECRETARIES: Mrs. Vera Ley, Mrs. Ann Makin, Mrs. Katherine Kovach.

DIETICIAN: Mrs. Lee Ann Cannonie.

Volunteers Add Sparkle

Many students search for an alternative to attending studyhalls. Besides getting passes to the library or just getting out to goof off, some students are willing to offer their time to assist in making the offices and library run more smoothly. Some office workers hand out absentee slips and check in late arrivers or students with early dismissals. "Student librarians provide an unselfish service to the whole school," stated Miss Englehart. "These small, yet important, jobs delegate responsibility to students and help them gain self-confidence."

GUIDANCE OFFICE WORKERS:
Rhonda Fulton, Brenda Findley.

Service Workers Add Dash

Every day there are people who work behind the scenes to make the day much easier for everyone at CCHS. These people are the service workers, cleaning ladies, custodians, and kitchen workers. This year the kitchen staff tried many unique ideas such as the breakfast line, the deli line, and the new vita pup machine. The cleaning ladies also went out of their to do more than just clean up the school. Some of the ladies helped iron costumes for our school play, while others gave Christmas gifts to all the teachers whose rooms they cleaned.

Mrs. Dolores Sokira serves up some soup for the hot lunch line. In addition to the regular lunch, the deli line was an alternative for hungry students.

Hot Shots

"Candid Camera" may be a thing of the past, but this year the yearbook staff developed their own version. Whenever you least expected it, there was your friendly neighborhood yearbook photographer, lurking in the halls, just waiting to capture the moment. These candid pages are the realization of your nightmares. They put it in the yearbook!

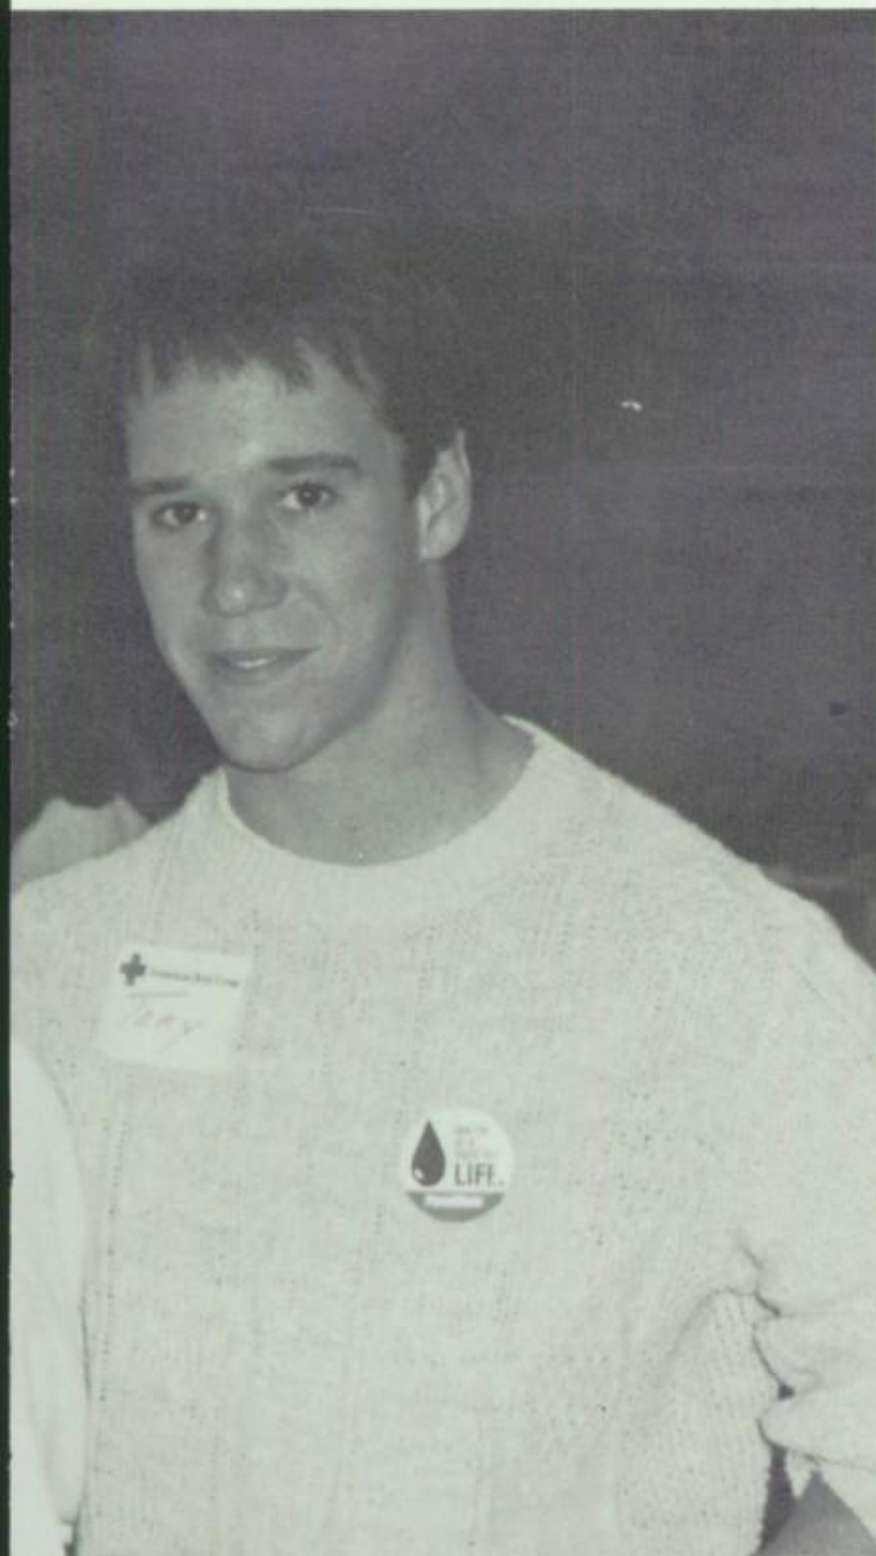

In sports, spirit is a physical phenomenon. The "hot," or spirited, team moves faster, hits harder, and plays better than its competition. However, in other activities, spirit is shown differently: it is a feeling that gives guidance, strength, and hope. This school spirit was seen throughout the year at pep rallies, during Spirit Week and Homecoming, at Christmas-fest, at the Prom, and, most of all, during graduation.

Likewise, the school's academic and vocational competitors displayed spirit. Members of the computer teams, FBLA, DECA, HERO, and the Forensics team competed on the district, state, and national levels, and several competitors won major awards. Yet, spirit was evident in both winners and losers. Here, spirit is the determination to sacrifice time and effort for success, and it is the unity that brings competitors together. In short, spirit is the force that makes non-athletic competition so rewarding and enjoyable.

Hot Times

School Spirit Shines

School spirit shined abundantly this year, as evident in student involvement in a number of pep actions. Again this year, pep rallies served as a spirit-raiser before some home football games. Students from each class enthusiastically demonstrated their support for the Red Devils as the cheerleaders and majorettes rallied everyone to the beat of the Pep Band. Some enjoyed the pep rallies more than others, like Tim Henderson, whose guest appearance at one rally boosted the excitement even higher.

Student Council-sponsored dances were also very successful this year. Besides being a source of income for Student Council, the dances also served as a release valve for all the built-up energy and anxiety from the progressing school year. Although each dance in itself was exciting and eventful, the most successful were probably the popular Pitt/Penn State Dance and Beach Dance. The Pitt-

/Penn State Dance gave students an opportunity to flash the colors of their favorite team, as did Tammy Felix, whose spirited attire earned her a "Red Devil Weinee." The Beach Dance, also a popular theme, helped ease the "winter doldrums" by setting the scene for some make-believe fun-in-the-sun. Everyone at the dances felt the excitement, even those who did not dance. As Randy Lute put it, "I don't dance; I just go to hear the music."

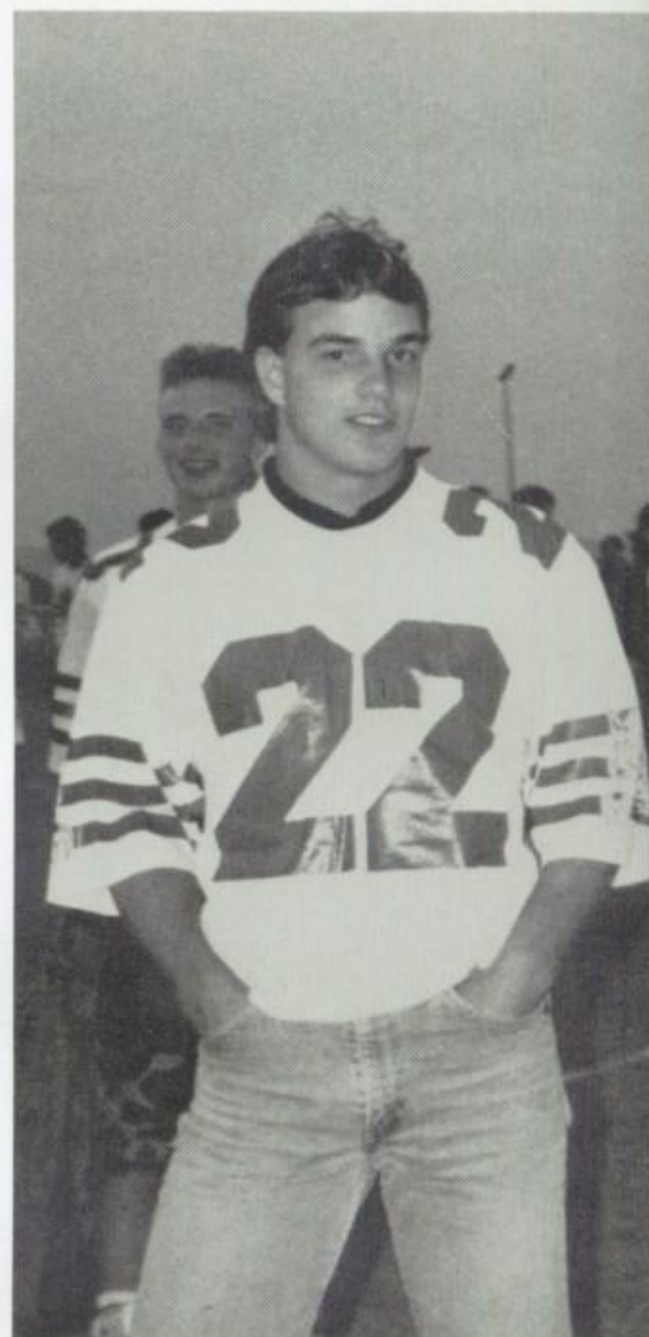

A new attraction this year to Central Cambria's agenda of pep activities was the bonfire. The evening before the football team's season opener, the football team, cheerleaders, pep band, and other team supporters gathered at 7:30pm to rally their team. Although the event achieved limited success, Missie Lloyd felt it was very beneficial. "It's a good spirit-raiser, and I think it will catch on better next year."

Darren Rech and Randy Seymour are just a couple of the members of the football team that attended the bonfire. Much of student body came to psych up the football players for their game against Richland.

Against the night sky, the bonfire blazes in hopes for an upcoming victory. Many Devil fans came to the bonfire, which hasn't been held for a few years, to cheer for the CCHS football team.

Tom Baughman blows a kiss to the camera, while partner Buffy Buckingham smiles prettily. An enthusiastic crowd welcomed in the new school year with a Back-to-School Dance.

In anticipation, underclassmen await the introduction of the homecoming court. The Homecoming Dance was just one of the many dances that CC students were able to attend.

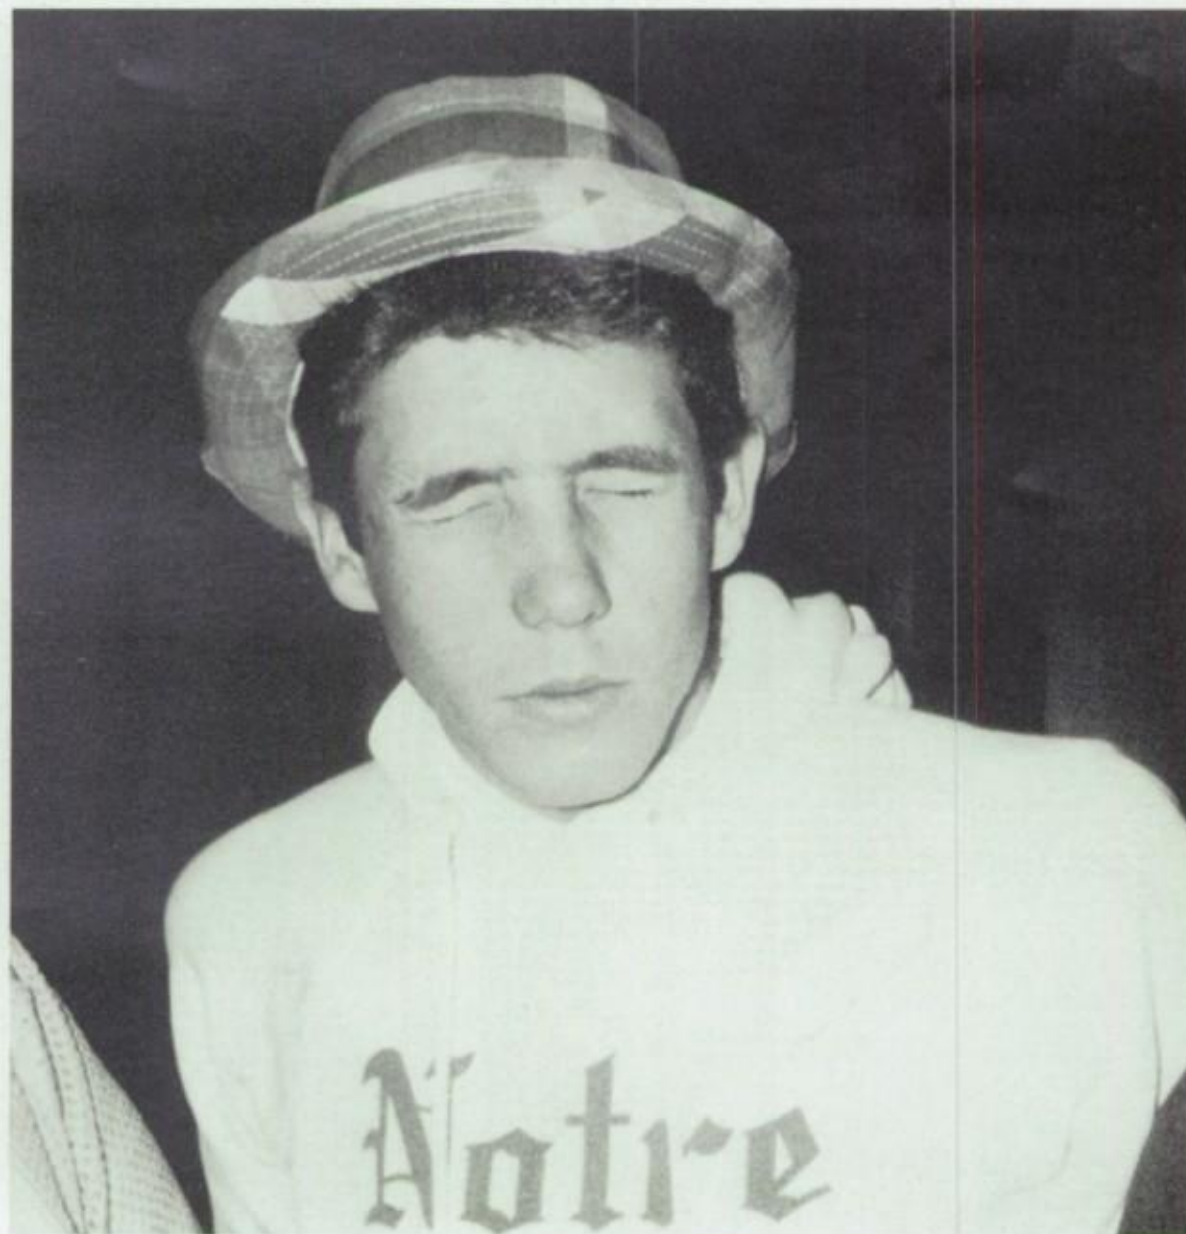

Cheerleaders Cristin Ponchione and Tammy Hoover link up with Darrell Jones at the bonfire. Although all three were members of a JV team, they lent their support for the varsity.

Showing you really can have a good time at a dance, Tim Henderson dances the night away. Tim participated much this year, whether it be dances, bonfires, or showing his spirit at pep rallies.

T.J. Swope rebels against the Pitt-/Penn State Dance by supporting Notre Dame. Penn State fans outnumbered Pitt this year again.

Spirit Week Flashes With Excitement

This year's Spirit Week was the most successful one ever. The decorations hung all over the school for the whole week. Each class hall was decorated to show the spirit which they have.

Along with the spirit, every day was a different theme, such as Monday- T-shirt, shades, and bandana; Tuesday-Sports; Wednesday- Pajamas, twin, or clash; Thursday- Hawaiian; and Friday- Red and black.

Also, during that week, Blazon had a "Sexy Legs Contest."

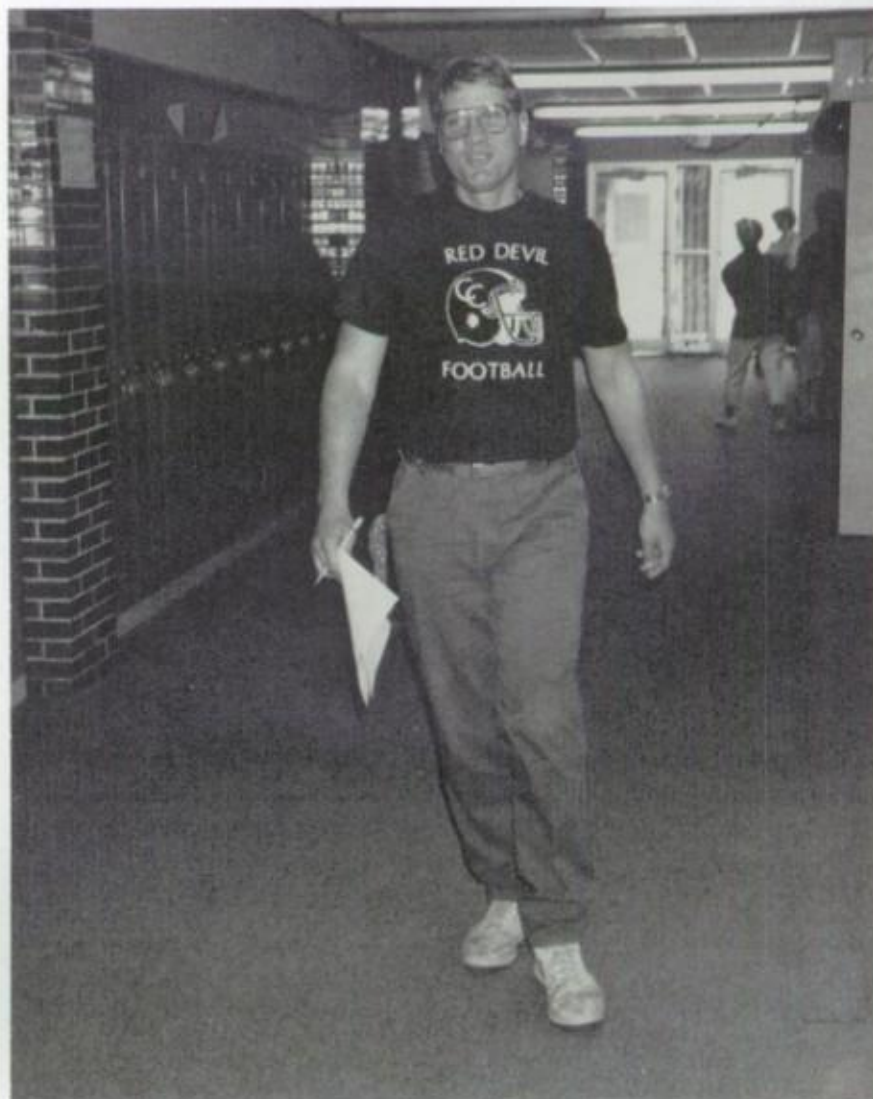

Everyone seemed to participate more this year, to dress according to the theme, and to help decorate the school.

Blasted, Willie Wray cools down the tone of his shirt by wearing his shades during Spirit Week. Willie had "colorized" his shirt in Art class only a couple days before.

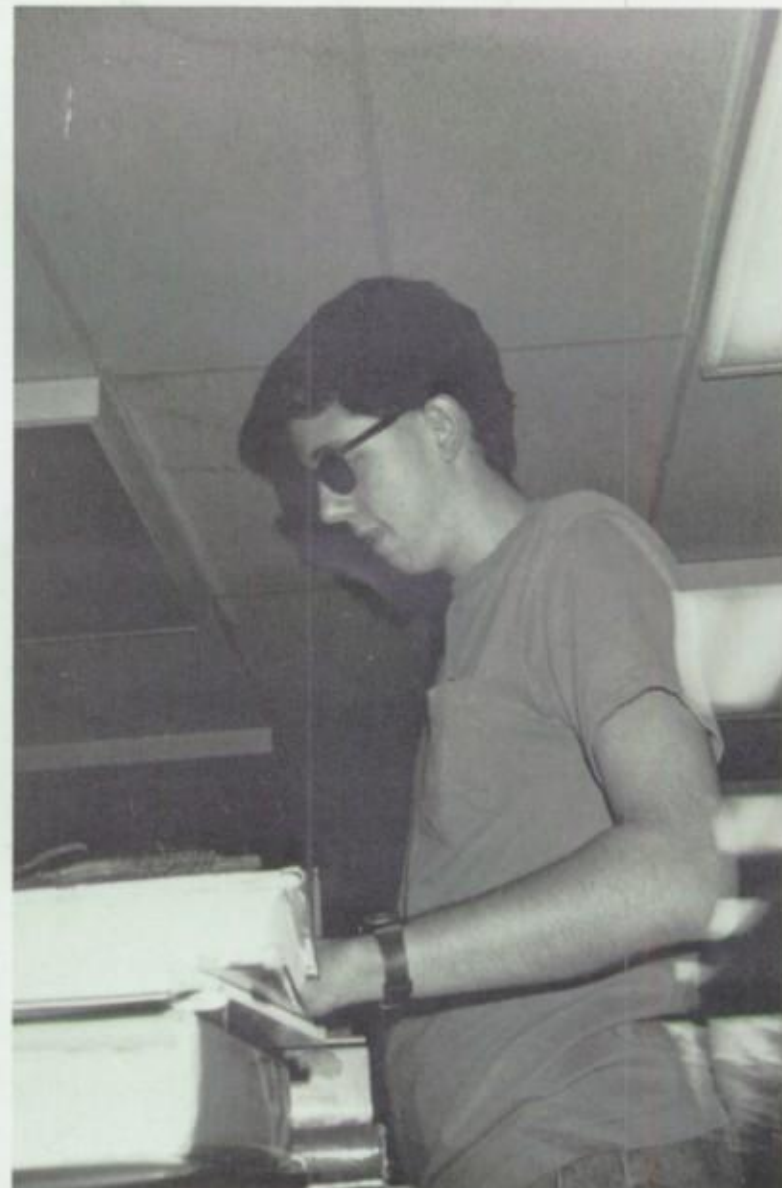

Excitement fills the air with balloons and pins worn by Tara Hunt and Robyn Arkwright. Despite the rainy evening, loyal fans attended the Homecoming football game.

Flaunting his casual look, Mr. Busard patrols the B-Wing. He was a big hit during Spirit Week because he dressed according to theme of each day.

Robin Wasser, Sarah Larson, and Sandie McKotch stand wet in the rain during the Homecoming football game. The Devils went on to victory against Bedford 13-6.

With shades and tee-shirt, Pete DeBalli dresses with the theme of the day "T-shirt, shades, and bandana" during Spirit Week. Pete was one of few students with the spirit and guts to dress for every-day of the week.

To keep warm and dry, Tina Niebauer shares her umbrella with Phil DeLosh and Gary Buck. These loyal fans braved the nasty weather to cheer the Devils on to win the Homecoming game.

Homecoming Sparkles With Tradition

This year, Homecoming took an interesting twist: the game itself could have been called the Mud Bowl. According to court members Kelli Acker and Rich Bauer, "Everyone in the court had their own personal mud puddle." Paige Templeton also tried to make the best of a mucky situation: "I know I'll always remember Homecoming night. I guess the mud is something I'll be sure to tell my grandchildren about." The court and fans braved the weather and carried on the Homecoming tradition. The band wasn't as brave; they stood in the end zone to play the national anthem before the game, then left for the comfort of the high school. The team didn't have much difficulty with the mud; they pulled off a 13-6 victory over the Bedford Bisons.

After struggling through the mud, the Homecoming Dance was a nice change of pace. The commons was decorated in red and black, and the Homecoming Court members were looking almost as good. Finally, all the weeks of waiting and tension peaked, and the excitement culminated with the announcement that the 1987 Homecoming King and Queen were Randy Seymour and Tricia Hurtack.

Krista Letizia and Steve Gillin are enjoying the spotlight. They overcame their nervousness and had an enjoyable evening.

Who matched these couples anyway? Ray Wyrwas and Missie Lloyd didn't let height stand in the way of their good time.

Senior funnyman Chris Kirkpatrick is the center of attention. "Plumpy" was one court member who chose to "strut his stuff."

THE 1987 HOMECOMING COURT:

Newly crowned Homecoming Queen and King Tricia Hurtack and Randy Seymour smile for the camera. Randy and Tricia were chosen for this honor by the student body.

Rich Bauer congratulates Kelli Acker on being chosen first runner-up. Rich then waited while Kelli received her roses.

Second runners-up: Ben Rose and Colleen Holsopple. King and Queen: Randy Seymour and Tricia Hurtack. First runners-up: Rich Bauer and Kelli Acker.

Second runners-up Colleen Holsopple and Ben Rose step forward to be recognized. They then waited for the announcement of their fellow royalty.

Ambitious Students Learn Responsibility

"Now that I know what kids are like, I'm not sure I want any," said Amy Schlosser about her babysitting job. Many CC students have obtained after school or weekend jobs. Some even have jobs where they leave school early and work into the evening. Most working students agree that a job gives them freedom and a feeling of responsibility.

Working in contact with people gives one an idea of how people react and why. Jill Byers explained, "I've learned to be more tolerant of people's feelings and how they think." Jill, a senior, is a hostess at the Hoss's restaurant in Westmont.

One of the primary reasons students get jobs is for them to have financial independence. Money received often is put toward the purchasing of a vehicle. Having an income gives a student a chance to buy clothes or accessories that they really want and couldn't get before. Humorously, Ron Kush, a junior, put it, "I'm glad I have a job. This way I can save up for my Senior year, so we can have Van Halen for the Prom." Ron works at Laurel Pharmacy in Ebensburg.

Having a job and going to school can be a trying experience. Going to school all day and working until nine or ten o'clock can be awfully tiring and hard on a person, especially one who has received much homework. Obtaining a job can mature one for the future and maybe help that one decide on a career choice.

Hard at work, Tami Rouzer proves that she really is the Dairy Queen. Besides working there, Tami works as a dentistry receptionist in Vinco.

Tom Brusko checks guages at the Penzoil refining plant in Mundy's Corner. Many students are fortunate enough to obtain jobs near their homes.

Beth Boring takes hot food orders at the Park Hill Dairy Queen where she works. After taking the orders, Beth has to fix drinks and prepare meal trays.

CCHS Glitters With Holiday Cheer

The 1987 Christmasfest was a success as always, but this year a new twist was added to make preparations for a more efficient day. Students were asked to make selections of movies from a large list displayed on a computer monitor set up in the back of the commons. The three most popular movies (Top Gun, Mannequin, and Crocodile Dundee) became choices on the list of activities for the day. The other choices which include the always-popular dance, swimming, basketball, volleyball, computers, weightlifting, and board games made the list complete for a fun-filled day.

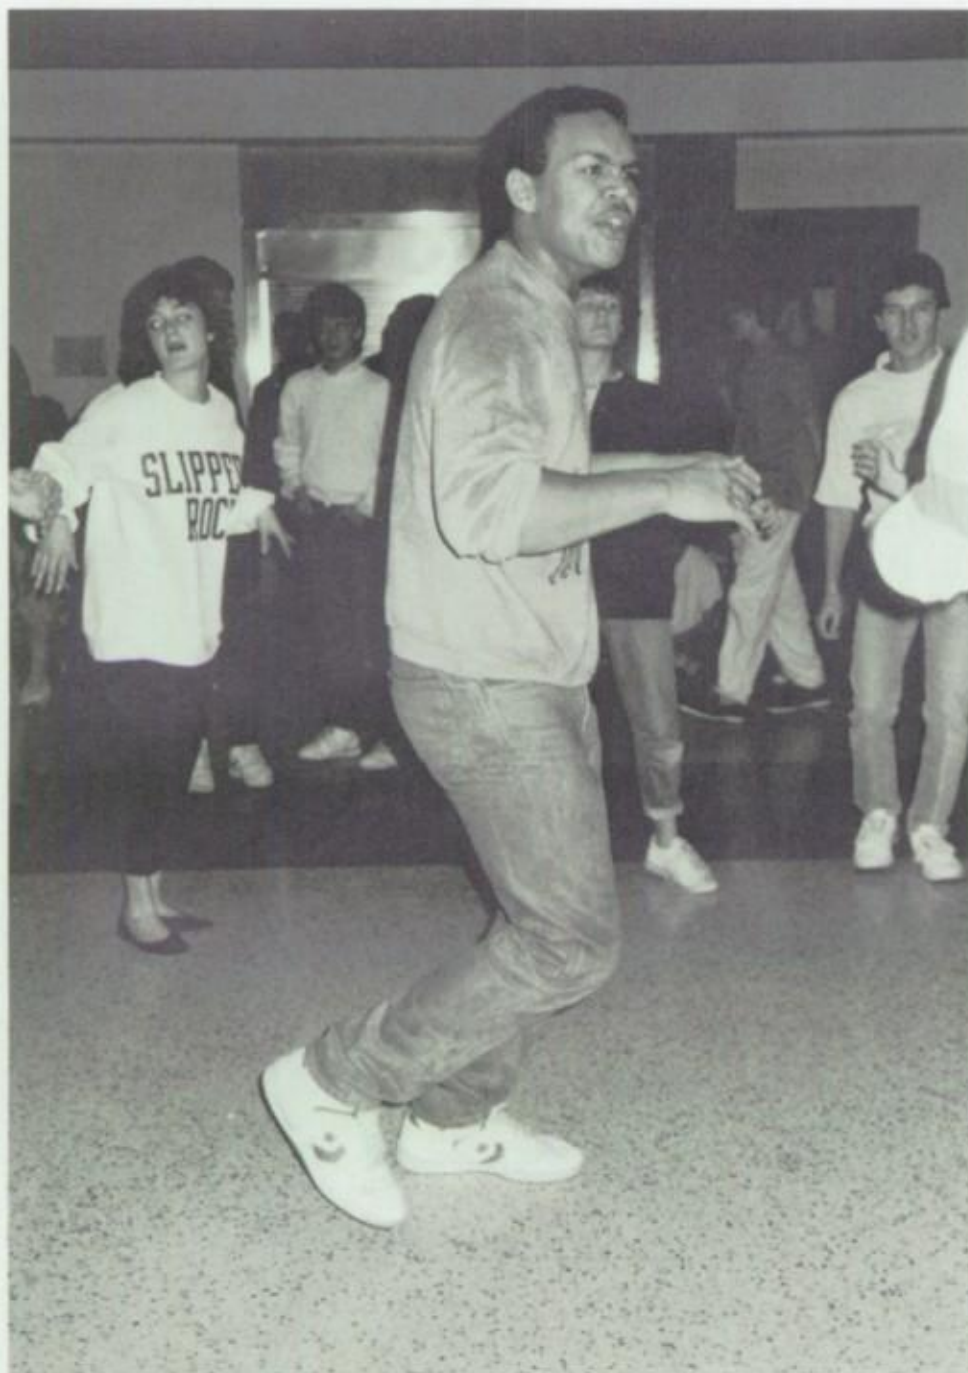

Senior Jill Byers shows her enthusiasm towards the holiday season. Jill distributed candy canes and lollipops to CCHS students.

Tim Baker takes a break from the day's festivities. By the end of the day, Christmasfest had tired a lot more students out.

Tom Baughman struts his stuff across the dance floor. Afterwards, Tom grabbed a partner and danced the afternoon away.

During Top Gun, Randy Seymour sleeps to prepare for the fun-filled afternoon dance. Although Randy fell asleep, the other students enjoyed their movie choice.

Krista Letizia and Kelli Acker, outrageous as always, enjoy their afternoon choice. Many other students chose the afternoon dance to end the Christmasfest on a high note.

Dynamite Musicians Excel

Besides performing for the school or community, members of the band and chorus can compete in levels of competition ranging from county up to states. Starting at the county level, members of the band and chorus can compete in Districts, Regionals, and with hard work and valued talent, can compete in State band and chorus. Every year the Music Department encourages students to participate in these extracurricular activities. This year many choral and band members excelled in these competitions and were recognized for their accomplishments.

COUNTY BAND: First row: Kathy Barsda, Ben Myers, P.J. Learn, Tammy Griffith. Second row: Janel Behe, Judy Kish, Kathy Fisher, Sherry Hoover.

STATE CHORUS: Kelly Tsikalas.

DISTRICT AND REGIONAL BAND: Sherry Hoover, Kathy Fisher.

COUNTY CHORUS: First row: Lori Guinivan, Colleen Holsopple, Danielle Simko. Second row: Tricia Williams, John Kordet, Lisa Guinivan, Krissy Beunier, Rick Emerson, Lori Schmall, Lori Durbin, Kent Kimmel.

DISTRICT CHORUS: Colleen Holsopple, Jennifer Hultman, Lori Durbin, Kent Kimmel.

REGIONAL CHORUS: Janice Schmall, Kelly Tsikalas, Jennifer Hultman.

Competition Spotlights Explosive Talent

Although they receive less exposure, C.C.'s non-athletic competitors had a "hot" year. Both the FBLA and DECA teams had numerous winners at their meets, as did the Forensics team. The computer team had a double success: it won first at the UPJ invitation-al, and its Superquest team was nationally recognized. Central Cambria teams also made a strong showing in the Chemistry Olympics. The school's Debate team and Voice of Democracy competitors (both consisting of Jamie Davis and Pete DeBalli) placed at both district and state competitions. The year's greatest success was Sherry Rubisch, who was first in the state in the HERO baking competition.

STATE FORENSICS: Kelli Acker, Pete DeBalli, Shannon Keating, Judy Kish.

STATE CONGRESSIONAL DEBATE AND VOICE OF DEMOCRACY: Pete DeBalli and Jamie Davis.

NATIONAL FORENSICS: Pete DeBalli

Mock Trial Team Lukewarm In Competition

"We'd never lost before, but now I'm sure I liked winning better," said senior Kelli Acker about the Mock Trial team's disappointing loss to Bishop Carroll. The team was victorious in their competition against Bishop Guilfoyle but were edged out by a narrow margin against Bishop Carroll. "It's always difficult to repeat a state championship," was the only response coach P.J. Lutz could offer. Although the team was unhappy about the season, the experience they gained will be carried on into the next year's team which will see five returning members.

This was a common pose for Jamie Davis during both practices and trials. Jamie's versatility as an attorney was outstanding.

Kelli Acker delivers her opening statement to the jury. Kelli's opening presented the basic points of the case.

Junior George Acker plays the part of Pat Hopkins on the stand. George will return as a mainstay on next year's team.

Robin Wasser waits through a tense moment while the judge decides an objection. Understanding objections was just one of the challenges Robin faced during her first year on the team.

Pete DeBalli was a force to be reckoned with on the witness stand. His believability as a witness contributed to the team's success against Bishop Guilfoyle.

Actors Light Up The Stage

The school play, a regular feature at most other high schools, returned to Central Cambria this year in full force. "See How They Run," an English farce, was performed by the drama club on March 10 and 11. The story takes place at an English vicarage, home of the vicar, Lionel Toop (Jamie Davis), and his American wife, Penelope (Robin Wasser). As Lionel is out one evening, Penelope's old "friend," Corporal Clive Winton (Scott Estep) stops by for a visit. Clive and Penelope step out to reminisce and to avoid Mr. Toop's ex-sweetheart, Miss Skillon (Janice Schmall). Lionel returns, only to be attacked by a Russian spy (George Acker), who has escaped from the nearby military base. Then both Penelope's uncle, the Bishop of Lax (Pete DeBalli), and the Reverend Arthur Humphrey (Keith Sherry) arrive unexpectedly. Sergeant Towers (Bryan Grove) appears after them, looking for the Russian. The Toops' maid, Ida (Kelli Acker), is left to sort out this mess of chases, surprises, and mistaken identities.

Production of the play went much like the play itself: a slow start building up to a rapid finish. A small turnout at auditions was followed by weeks of rehearsal, then ten furious days where the set was built and painted, the show was performed, and the set was removed. Some students were disappointed that no student matinee was held. However, the actors were content with their work and will have many fond memories: George's door-bashing, or the "searing magenta" walls, for example. Also satisfied with the show was the director, Ms. Diana Burda. She said, "I was pleased with this year's performance, and I hope for more student support in next year's show."

Robin Wasser tells Scott Estep "where to go" during a rehearsal for "See How They Run." Robin and Scott played two of the main roles in the production.

Kelli Acker helps a drunken Janice Schmall across the room to the closet where she will be hidden. During the course of the play, many different characters were stashed in the closet.

Jamie Davis gives Janice Schmall "just five minutes" to explain her problem during the first act of the play. The play was performed by a student cast March 10 and 11.

Robin Wasser and George Acker listen as Pete DeBalli tells Bryan Grove that he is "not the man you are looking for." The play was based on the concept of mistaken identities.

Pete DeBalli played the part of the Bishop of Lax in "See How They Run." Pete has also performed in several Cresson Lake playhouse productions.

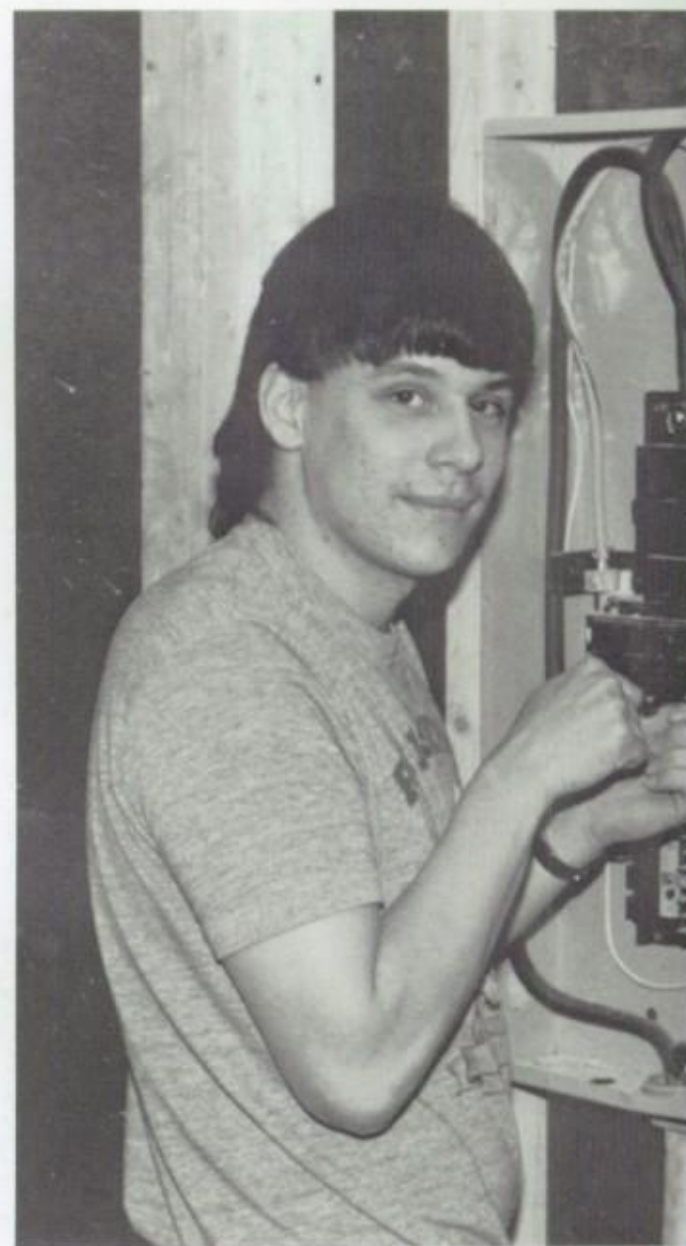

Jamie Davis disgustedly watches his wife, Robin Wasser who fights with Janice Schmall. Robin plays an American actress who doesn't get along with Janice's character, Miss Skillon.

Students Warm Up For Life

Several opportunities exist for students as they decide on the classes to study in their four years of high school; one such opportunity is the Vo-Tech. The Admiral Peary Vo-Tech offers the students that participate a chance to receive "hands-on" experience in a career field. Classes at the Vo-Tech prepare students directly for the job market and gives them the skills the students would need to compete for a job. Among the different fields of study available at the Vo-Tech are masonry, cosmetology, carpentry, health occupations, and numerous others. Vo-Tech offers those that participate a change in the regular schedule of classes plus valuable training in a potential career field. "Vo-Tech gives us a chance to learn something useful. We really work instead of sitting in classes all day," commented junior Eugene Sherry.

Ben Rose uses an electrical grinder to prep metal in anticipation for a clean weld. Techniques gained in welding courses prepares students to assume positions in the work force.

In one of the stores at Admiral Peary, Julie Brothers chooses a card to purchase. Julie is just one CC student who attended Vo-Tech for Marketing and Retail.

Matt Knopp assists Joe Lloyd with wiring a fuse box. Both Matt and Joe have attended the electricity curriculum at Vo-Tech for two years.

Don Mitchell works on patching the trunk of a vehicle. Auto Body is one of the two year courses at Admiral Peary.

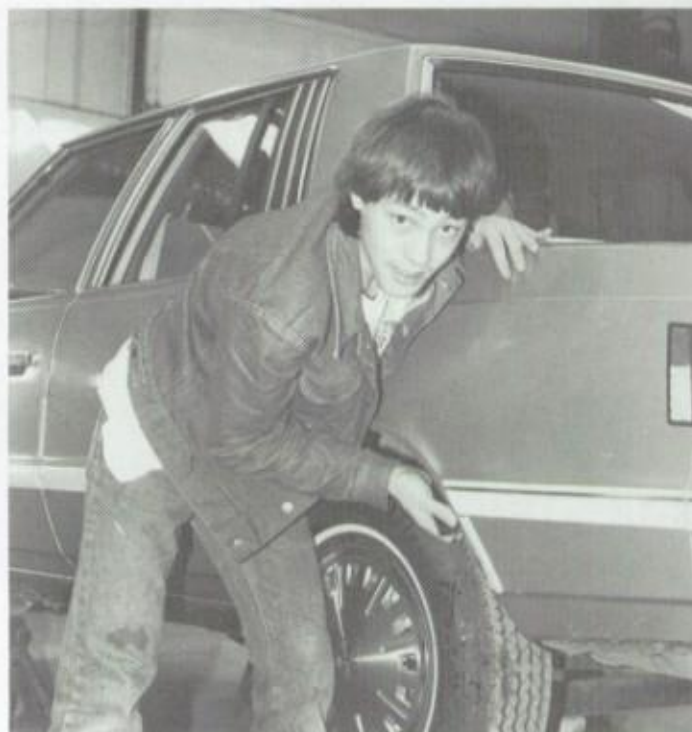

Kevin Scalise is splicing some lighting wires in his Electrical Technology class. Electrical Technology offers students knowledge in computer electronics and practical electric circuitry.

Tim Braniff tries to get a car started by opening the carburator. Auto Mechanics students learn the components of a finely tuned engine.

Mike Arnold buffs the putty into the car's quarter panel. Auto Body, Mike's curriculum, is one of many courses offered at the Vo-Tech.

Glenn Shay strives for precision in his work. Seniors put their carpentry skills into practice with the construction of a model home.

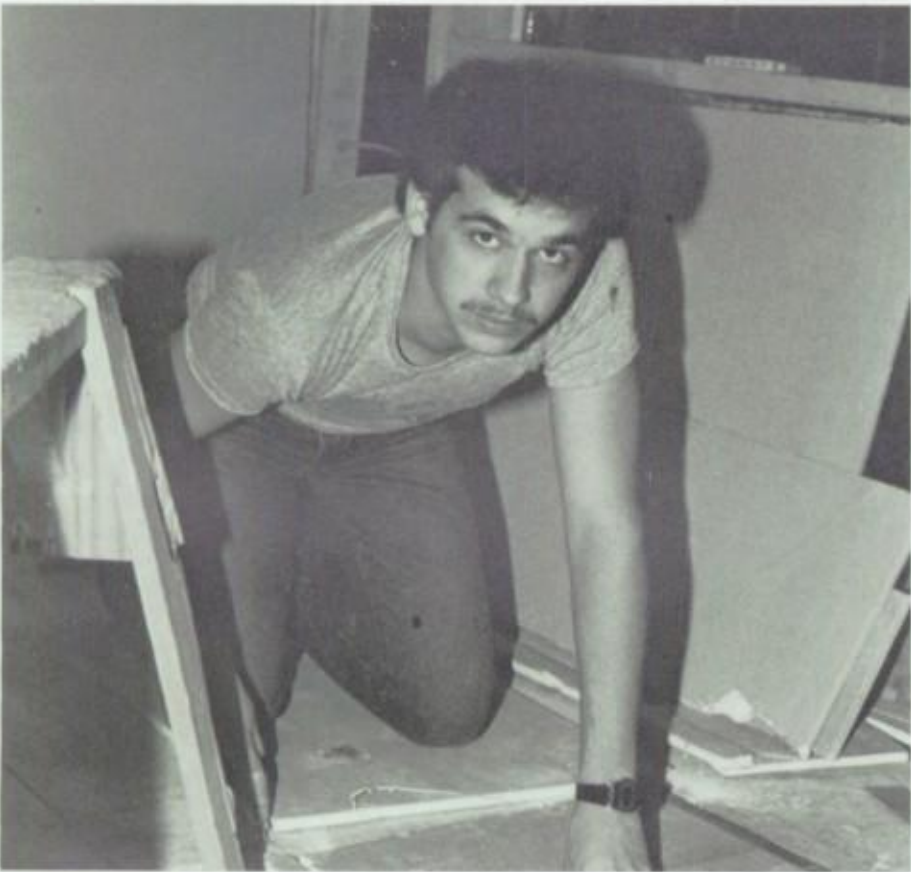

Harry Corle and Cary Evans take a moment to look up from their carpentry labor. In the carpentry program, students acquire basic building trade skills.

Tami Rouzer prepares to have a dental bite wing x-ray. Tami is enrolled in the health occupations curriculum at the Vo-Tech.

Jeff Buksa cuts drywall to fit his class project. Jeff, in the carpentry class, learns the basics and advanced skills in the carpentry profession.

Lisa Bush sketches a room in her drafting class. Drafting classes prepare students for careers in interior design and architecture.

C.C. Talent Glows

This year's talent show was full of unique acts as well as the traditional ones. Steve Lutman performed a karate routine, known as Kotya. On the humorous side, Tammy Aughenbaugh and Bobbie Jo Matevish paid a tribute to the Blues Brothers. Jean Higgins sang "Honestly" by Stryper, while Michelle Vasas signed the words.

As every other year, there were also a variety of singers and a few musicians. Janice Schmall, who sang "Where Do Broken Hearts Go," placed third. Pat Barnhart and Eric Mackall captured second, while first place went to Kelly Tsikalas, who sang "Papa, Can You Hear Me" from Yentl, which she dedicated to her father.

Chris Matevish and Tony Feighner team up on an original guitar composition. The antics of the guitarists, which, included Chris playing with his teeth, added to the hot performance.

Steve Lutman demonstrates his skills in karate for the student body. Steve's act was one of the most original in the entire show.

"Blues Brothers" Bobbie Jo Matevish and Tammy Aughenbaugh entertain the audience. Their act, a mix of lip-sync and dance, was a sure hit at the show.

Jean Higgins and Michelle Vasas overcome their nervousness as the talent show's opening act. Jean's vocal performance and Michelle's sign language made them a unique beginning to this year's show.

Pat Barnhart warms up on the drums before the talent show. With another second-place finish, Pat was this year's only repeat winner.

Kelly Tsikalas, accompanied by Jen Hultman, captures first place. Kelly's finish came just weeks after she was elected "most talented" by the senior class.

Janice Schmall wraps up third place with her rendition of a popular Whitney Houston ballad. Janice was a familiar face in the talent show; this year marked her third appearance.

Prom: A Dazzling Evening

The 1988 Junior/Senior Prom was held on May 7 with black, gold, and white incorporated to promote the theme "A Touch of Class." From eight to eleven students and faculty chaperones were entertained by a D.J.

The students danced amid the colored balloons and streamers decorating the cafeteria. Photographer Jim King took pictures of the couples in the brightly lit courtyard decorated by the prom committee. Committee members had worked diligently for weeks to make the night a success.

Shaun Persio, Laura Putman, Janel Behe, and Matt Brown take a break from the action on the dance floor. They, among many students, enjoyed the 1988 Prom.

Pete DeBalli, Randy Seymour, Kelli Acker, Krista Letizia, and Pam Hurley share a few laughs during the Prom. The Prom was one of the last high school events for these seniors.

Mrs. Judy Toth, Alissa LoPiccolo, and Sue Kordish take a break from putting up decorations. Mrs. Toth was the advisor of the prom committee and put in a lot of her spare time.

The prom committee carefully disguised the trophy case, which caught eyes prom night. The committee put in long hours making the theme decorations.

Graduation Sparks Mixed Emotions

Graduation night is the most anticipated night of the high school years, and for every person, from the freshmen to the seniors, it seems like the only night that will never come.

However, the night did arrive for the class of 1988. Graduation took place June second in the high school auditorium.

Senses of pride and accomplishment filled the room as each senior received his diploma. Tears were shed, of course, for the years that had slipped by, but parents and students alike looked toward the endeavors and the successes the future holds.

Drew Battista proudly receives his diploma. Mrs. Jacqueline DeBalli, School Board President, presented each senior with his diploma.

Graduates prepare to accept their diplomas. Many have plans to further their education or enter the work force.

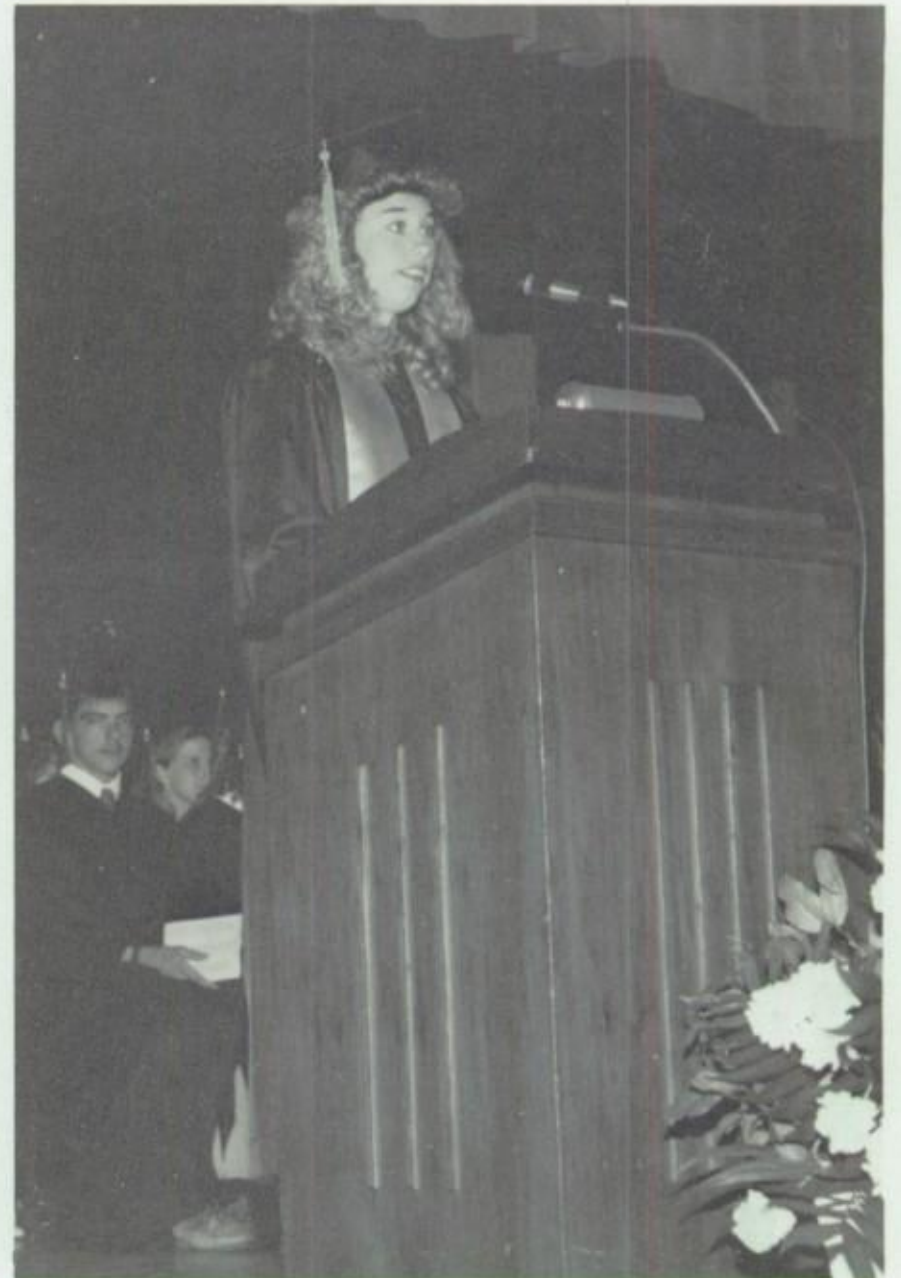

Ronna Marhefka, Angela Mackanick, and Brock Hamula anxiously await the processional. After the ceremony many graduates celebrated their accomplishments with parents and friends.

Senior chorus members sing a song of dedication for the entire class. Seniors were advised to "Take Your Dreams and Make It Happen."

Valedictorian Kelli Acker introduces District Attorney Timothy Creany, the guest speaker. Kelli not only excelled academically, but in many extracurricular activities as well.

C.C. Smiles Sparkle

Cathy Magyar takes a breather between horse show competitions. Cathy was among many CCHS students who displayed their animals and competed at the fair grounds.

Mr. Gironda shows his excitement over the happenings of the District Student Council Convention. Mr. Gironda was one of the faculty members who volunteered with districts.

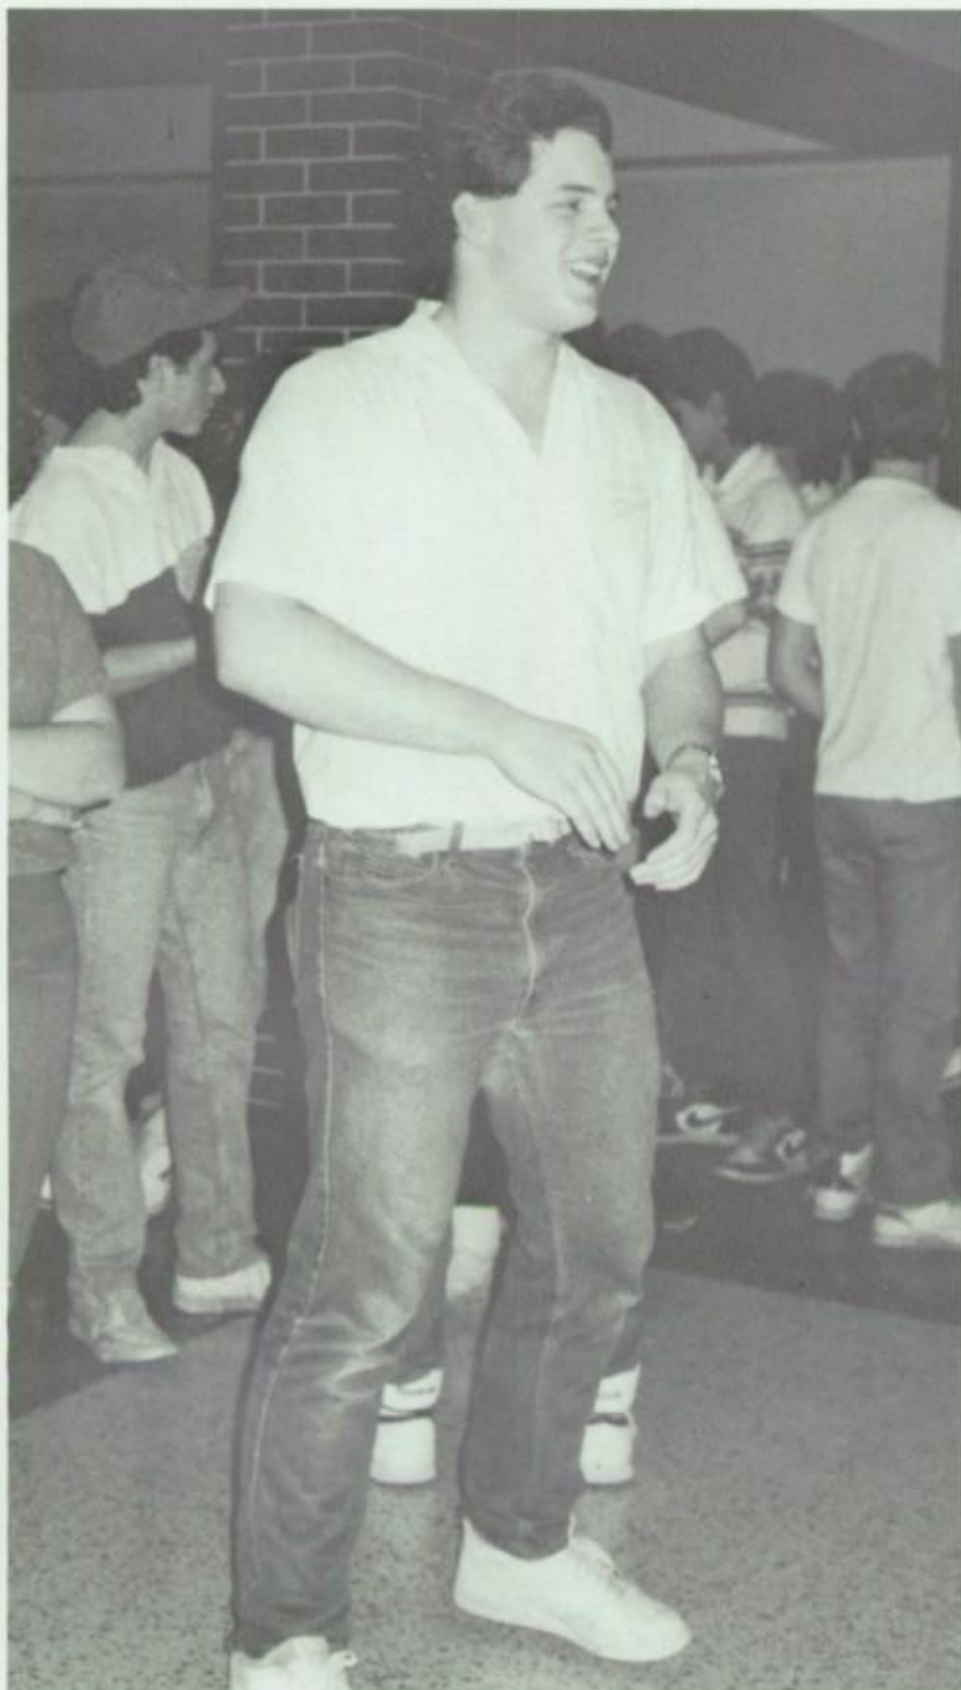

Joe Hurley and Heather Green await the announcement of Homecoming king and queen. Joe and Heather, along with many students and faculty, attended this year's Homecoming dance.

Blayze Gaboda proudly sits at his terminal. Blayze was a student in Mr. Karwoski's Computer I class.

Bob Williams shows that he truly has it on the dance floor. Bob enjoyed the afternoon dance sessions at this year's Christmasfest.

Tammy Hrapchak and Mike Baglio take a breather between swim meets. Both Tammy and Mike lettered on this year's swim teams.

While the jury makes their decision, CCHS Mock Trial observers take a break. Many students showed their spirit and supported this year's team.

Enjoying the fair, Erin Dahlin and Missy DeRubis smile for the camera. The 1987 fair was well attended by many CCHS students and faculty.

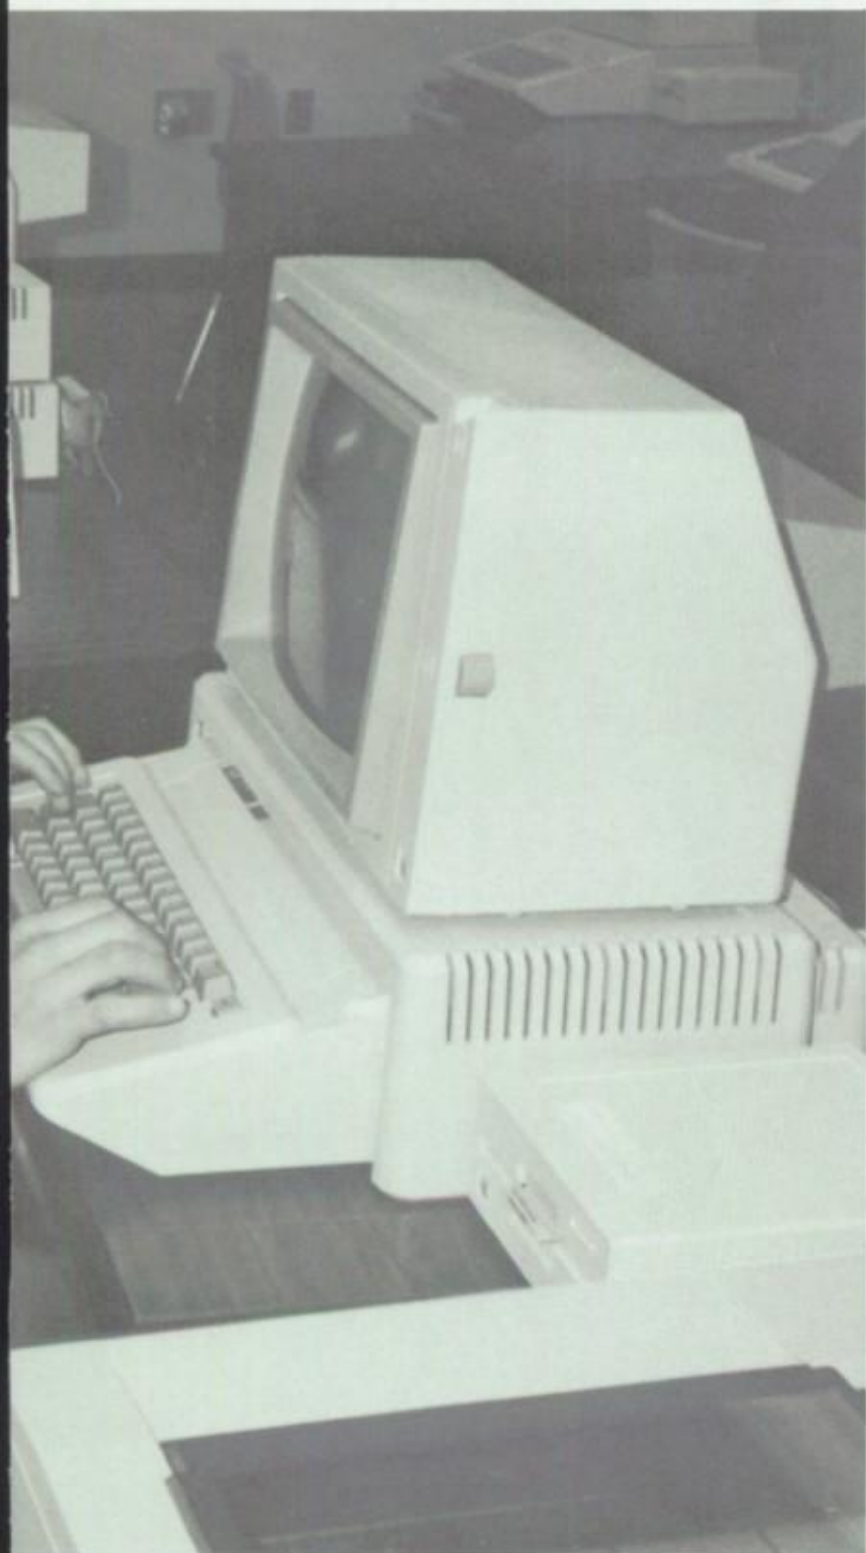

With football games, dances, and clubs, it is easy to forget why we have to come to school- Academics. Each day wouldn't be the same if no one struggled to finish late homework or crammed for a big test or could complain about some class. Whether we like it or not Academics is the main part of our student lives. We might not think that a math class could provide the same excitement and spirit as a football game, but remember how great it felt to get a passing grade because you finally figured out what in the world was going on.

Hot Ideas

Service Projects Highlight NHS Year

During only its second year of reinstatement here at the high school, the National Honor Society is growing at a steady rate. This year two induction ceremonies were held and a total of twenty-seven students were brought into this society. The senior members who were inducted in the fall began community service projects and once twenty project hours were completed, received their pins. These project hours varied from tutoring here at the school to working at Laurel Crest Manor. Next year's seniors will work on projects as well as run the school store.

Juniors Barb Davis, Carol Grove, Stacy Henry, and John McKotch nervously await their induction. Only juniors were inducted in the spring ceremony.

If his head wasn't attached, would he remember it? Rich Bauer had the grades to get into NHS, but he left his socks at home.

Danielle Simko and Gary Sloan were two of the seniors inducted at the fall ceremony. Seniors had to wait until the spring awards assembly to receive their NHS pins.

Jamie Davis clowns around with classmates Lara Dunchak, Kelli Acker, Brock Hamula, Pete DeBalli, and Drew Battista. NHS members take their studies seriously, but know how to have fun.

Interest Flares For Real World

Do you ever wonder what the point is in coming to school? Although it may not seem like it sometimes, every class available at Central Cambria has a purpose, either immediately or "down the road." However, some classes are more "practical" than others. Instead of being an academic preparation for the future, these classes offer a skill that can be applied almost immediately. Some courses offer a skill that will prove valuable in the workplace. The yearbook and School Publications courses teach students some basics in journalistic writing and publications. The Computer-aided Drafting and Design (CAD/CAM) course offers the participants experience in this area of vocation as well. The Home Economic and Industrial Arts courses offer experience and skills valuable both in the job field and at home. Chris Sauger, a four-year "shop" student, relates, "I already use these skills at home, but they'll also be helpful in finding a job in the future." Another line of classes teaches skills that will be needed either in office jobs or while in college. Computers I and Typing I familiarize the student with the machines and increase typing speed. The newest class, College Bound Economics, was introduced this year and provided information on the U.S. economy. A final "practical class", "Marriage and the Family", is unique because it offers insight into the social and economic changes confronting the family circle and the roles of the spouse/parent in this structure. As Cherie Ayers explains it, "The class not only prepares the student for the responsibilities, but helps define one's skills as an individual, as a family member, and as a parent of tomorrow."

Ronna Marhefka and Chris Bender try to sell Missy Bracken "Safety First Aid Kits" which were offered by the Economic College Bound students. It was mandatory for each student to sell five kits for their fictional company.

Krista Letizia works hard on the school newspaper. Krista added laughs to each class with her outrageous stories.

Mike Malloy and Matt Brown flaunt their cooking expertise. Mrs. Klezek's cooking classes baked scrumptious cookies for this year's bloodmobile.

Pete DeBalli diligently works with the yearbook computer. Pete applied his computer knowledge to simplify the yearbook planning.

Ray Wyrwas and Linda Lauer wash dishes in Survival for Singles. This class prepares young students for the real world where Mom and Dad no longer wash their clothes and cook their meals.

Cherie Ayers and Kim Tweedy put their minds to work on their page of the school newspaper. This year's staff worked together well, and each member helped the other without hesitation.

Classes "Fry" Students' Brains

Straight edges, significant digits, yeast, Scotch Brand Magic Transparent Tape, factor label method, enzymes, compasses, logarithms, Pascal, the periodic table, and yes, Super Chem! These and much more are things most students have to look forward to. All belong to the so-called "dreaded classes": Mr. Solomon's mathematics, Mr. Miller's biology, and Mr. Alex's chemistry. Walking into A-206 can be a dreaded event for those not mathematically inclined. Students stock up on the infamous Scotch Brand Magic Transparent Tape for the googols of tape-on's during the year. Along with solving the problems correctly, special headings and margins are required. Although Mr. Solomon's classes require hard work, most students agree the material and discipline learned will help them later on. "You never forget what you learn in his classes," remarked junior Jared Lambie. Mr. Miller's biology class brings a new meaning to taking notes. At the end of class students' hands ache and their minds reel with thoughts of vitamins, cells, DNA, and glucose. Even though students end up with four notebooks at the end of the year, they are very helpful later on. "I constantly use my old biology notebooks to figure out what I'm doing in advanced biology," said senior JoLynn Bono. Freshmen aren't required to take biology, but some choose to anyway. "I took it to get it over with," commented freshman Gretchen Groke. People who don't take Mr. Alex's chemistry class miss out on his alter-ego Super Chem! Within the first week of school, Mr. Alex jumps on his desk and becomes Super Chem! He saves the periodical chart and shouts that he's faster than a speeding molecule. "He scared me half to death. He just started jumping around on his desk," exclaimed junior Renee Smith. Mr. Alex's class may be too advanced for some students, but he is still a practicing chemist and is able to introduce the newest concepts into his classes.

Walter Orlosky looks on as Drew Battista proudly displays his solar spectrum. Advanced Physics is another class that challenges CCHS students.

Jared Lambie wonders why the Organic Chem lab he shares with Chip Albright isn't working. The lab was on Grignard reagents.

Tony Dill and Doug Bopp work together to correct their Algebra II homework. Before each of Mr. Solomon's tests all students must hand in their corrected assignments.

Dave Edmiston adjusts one of the hoses on his homemade volumeters. Advanced Biology students used the volumeters to measure rates of respiration.

Randy Seymour weighs chemicals in order to start his Organic Chemistry lab. Students also had to set up glassware before beginning each lab.

Students Get Hot And Bothered

Tests, tests, tests! To some students, any test is a horrible experience. However, tests are an important part of a student's education. There are the Iowa tests, taken in grades 9-11, that help to determine a student's areas of academic weakness. Some students must take the ASVAB, a battery of tests that shows a student's ability in performing numerous skills. Other students must take the SAT, the ACT, and/or one to three CBAT's which are all tests used by colleges for admission purposes. In addition to standardized tests such as these, there are hundreds of tests and quizzes in school itself. Who can forget staying up late to prepare for pop quizzes in Mr. Miller's biology course, or studying almost forever in order to pass Mr. Solomon's finals? Studying for tests may not be enjoyable, but it is crucial to a student's success.

Senior Beth Kaschalk prepares for a test as she anxiously awaits the day that high school tests will be over. Underclassmen, however, still have a while to wait.

Sophomores hover over their test booklets searching for the right answer to circle. The Iowa Test was given to juniors and freshmen also.

Danielle Simko can't help day-dreaming in homeroom period as she prepares for the day's exams. Many students took advantage of the homeroom period to finish work and study for tests.

Shawn Smith "surveys the situation" as he struggles with his Iowa Test. Although the tests may have seemed boring and repetitive, all underclassmen had to take them.

Karen Sees utilizes library time to prepare for the day's tests. The library was a popular area for students to study.

Catching The Hot Scoop!

This year's Blazon and Oracle staffs were selected from applications submitted by students who were interested in working on the newspaper and yearbook. Creating layouts and learning journalistic methods were some of the things taught throughout the course of the year. The Blazon staff consisted of eleven members with Miss Ilene Brown as the adviser. The staff published eight newspapers and a senior Edition which included the seniors' last wills and testaments and baby pictures. The Blazon also held two fund raisers: The Sexy Legs contest, which featured the senior football players, and The Most Kissable Lips contest, which highlighted the class officers. The Oracle staff also had eleven members. This year, instead of being an extra-curricular activity, the yearbook was a class. Each member of the staff received a grade and credit for the class. With the help of the new computer they received, the yearbook staff was able to meet their deadlines more easily.

BLAZON STAFF: First row: Ronna Marhefka, Cherie Ayers, Pam Hurley, Krista Letizia. Second row: Miss Ilene Brown, adviser, Christine Bender, Kelly O'Brien, Kim Tweedy, Tami Rouzer, Missy Bracken, Bryan Grove. Absent: Lynn Davidson.

Chris Bender, Lynn Davidson, and Kelly O'Brien work together to finish a page for an edition of the Blazon. For each edition, the students were required to write at least three articles.

Jamie Davis helps Miss Brown choose which picture to use for the yearbook cover. Various students submitted art work for the cover design.

Erin Dahlin looks on as Matt Brown finishes his layout. In addition to layouts, the staff was also responsible for writing all the copy.

Even if it doesn't show, this year the yearbook was very organized. Out of chaos the staff finally managed to put the yearbook together.

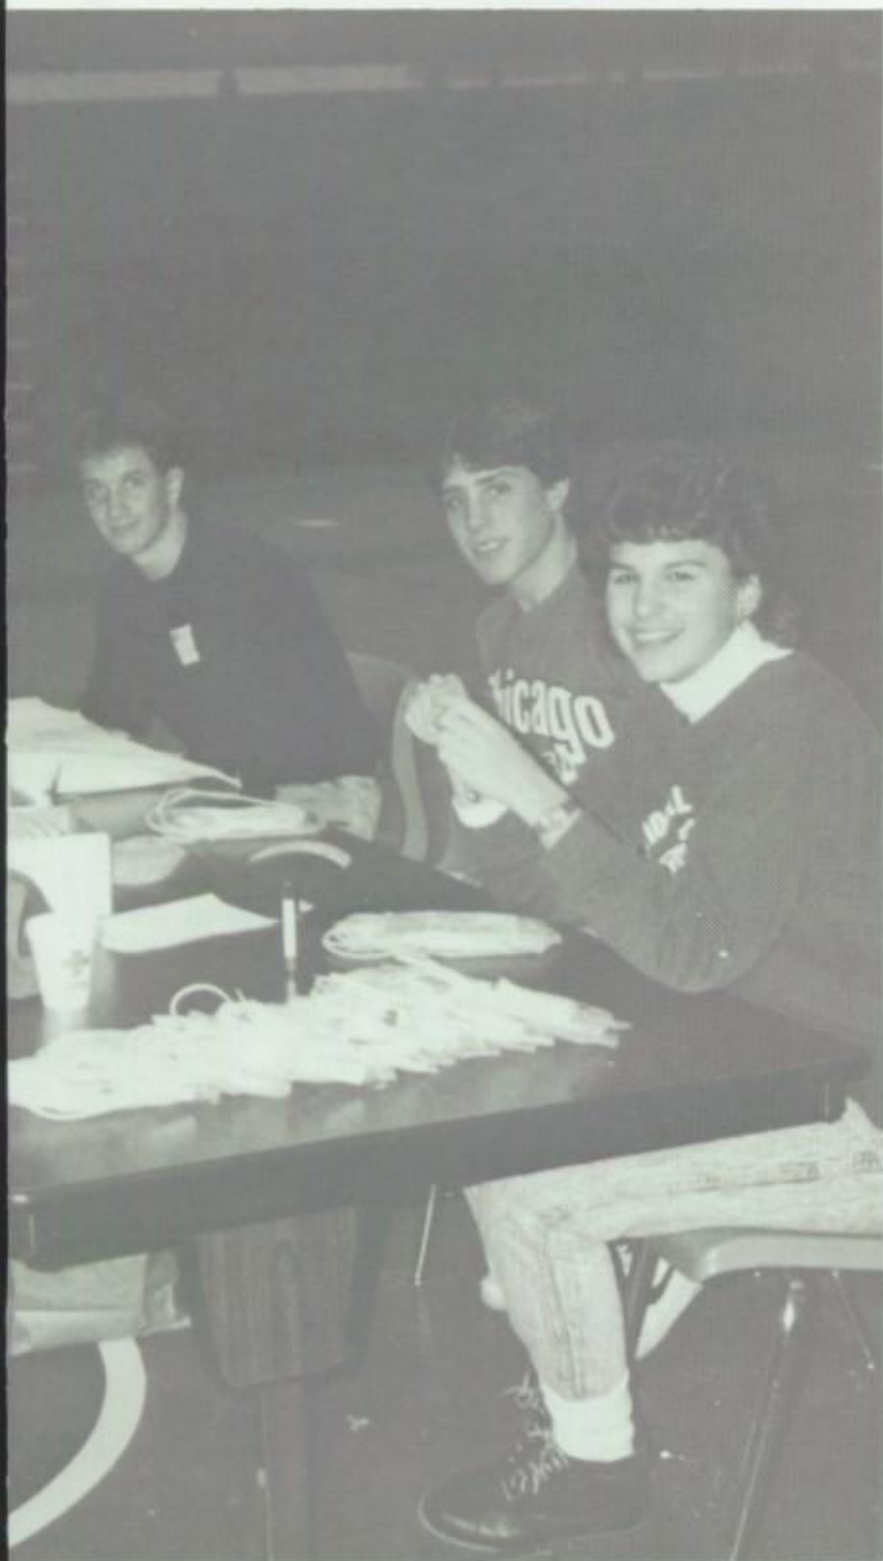

Many of the clubs and organizations in our school show their school spirit in various ways. In addition to clubs' annual events such as the bloodmobile, many unique things from sponsoring Special Olympics to making a television commercial were done. Student Council held the District Convention here. Student Council members planned this event for over a year, and everyone involved worked diligently to make it a success.

Band and chorus also are a part of Central Cambria's spirit. Every Christmas and spring, the concert band and chorus perform a concert. During football season the marching band boosts the fans' morale by playing at games. Many factors go into making up the spirit of CC and clubs and organizations are a large part.

Clubs Aflame With Generosity

Every month time is allotted for club meetings. Many clubs are formed to benefit the school and community, and many clubs at C.C. contribute to both. For example, the purpose of the Community Service Club deals solely with helping the community. Every Christmas they donate food to the local food pantry to help needy people during the holidays. They also donate eyeglasses for the Lyons Club for individuals who cannot afford new glasses. The Community Service Club helps in the Special Olympics and also in sending the elementary school's special education class to Showbiz for a pizza party. Along with the Community Service Club, Art Club also helps in the food drive. To get in the spirit of the holiday season, every Christmas they decorate the tree in the commons. The Sportsman's Club sponsors the wilderness films. Many avid hunters from around the community attend the show.

Joyce Moose, president of the Art Club, assists Dominick Glavach, president of the Community Service Club, with sorting nonperishable food for the annual Food Drive. This year the Food Drive brought in 3000 pounds of food and 200 dollars from the students.

Lisa Miller lends a helping hand to Shelly Keyser in the softball throw at the Special Olympics held at Mount Aloysius. The Community Service Club attended two Special Olympics this year.

Richard Murray, adviser of SADD, speaks to CCHS students about drinking and driving and explains the Contract of Life. Even though Mr. Murray and SADD were new this year, they managed to have a positive impact on student life.

Art Club members decorate the Christmas tree which was donated by. The Art Club also helped set up displays for the Middle School art work to be displayed at the Christmas concert.

Leslie Urish, treasurer of the Art Club, puts the finishing touches on the Christmas tree. The Art Club also sold refreshments at football and basketball games.

George Acker provides moral support support as a hugger to his Olympian. The Community Service Club attends the Special Olympics every year.

Lynn Seliga and Lori Skibo give Mrs. Makin a flower. Every year the FBLA gives each secretary a flower for appreciation of their hard work.

Activities Liven Student Life

Again this year, Student Council was busy planning student life. Responsible for representing the student body, the Council consisted of twenty-nine elected members and over seventy-five "probationary" members. The probationary members were volunteers who may have been voted onto the Council based on their commitment. Among the activities sponsored by Student Council this year were several dances, a School Board Liaison Committee, the Bloodmobile, and Homecoming Week. In addition our school sponsored a Student Council Convention. With all of the Student Council projects scheduled, members found the year to be enjoyable but very draining.

Hot-Blooded Students Donate

"Whoever said it doesn't hurt lies, because it does," said senior Dani Simko. Although many people were afraid of giving blood most agreed that it wasn't as terrifying as they imagined. The Red Cross nurses and Student Council volunteers helped calm nervous students and make their donation easier.

This year the bloodmobile surpassed its goal of 100 by 56 pints, 96 pints from Penn State and 60 pints from Pitt.

Glenn Shay, Jay Davis, and Scott Edwards proudly show their battle wounds. Rather than purple hearts, donors received "I Gave" stickers.

Linda Lauer, a Student Council volunteer, preps Ron Nealen for his blood donation. All donors completed several stages before actually giving blood.

Jill Byers sits patiently while a Red Cross nurse applies a tourniquet to Jill's arm. Nurses tried to make first time donors, such as Jill, as comfortable as possible.

Dynamite Districts Explodes

This year for the first time, Central Cambria's Student Council sponsored the District VI Convention of Student Council. This event, held all day on April 22, involved approximately 700 students. This year's Council chose "Believe to Achieve" as the theme for the Conference and adopted a penguin as the mascot. With these and other small details settled, Student Council started the real work of preparing for the convention. Members of Student Council worked very hard in preparing for the Convention. In December the Council divided up into approximately a dozen committees and chose committee chairpersons. Then each committee began work for the convention: radio stations were informed, penguins were painted, workshops were planned. After four months of separate preparations, the committees then reconvened in April for some last minute work. But in the end, all was finished, and our school was ready to host, as Carol Grove put it, "the best Student Council conference ever." The day started off with a jolt with Brock Hamula's "ice breaker" and with guest speaker Mark Sharenbroich. After Mark's motivational presentation, the participants broke up into their workshops. After lunch, the students gathered into the auditorium for another speaker and some presentations, and then the conference ended with a wild and spirited dance. The District VI Student Council Convention for 1988 was by far a big success. Through the conference, Central Cambria's Council provided a chance for District Councils to exchange ideas, to have some fun, and to see the enthusiasm with which the Central Cambria School District and Council approach their student-oriented activities. Mr. Lutz said, "We will do this with class, or we won't do it at all," and this year's convention was done with class!

Keynote speaker Mark Sharenbroich is surrounded by Jill Johns, Stacy Henry, and Sue Grove. Mark was such a popular speaker that he received a standing ovation.

Krista Letizia is all smiles because her long year of hard work paid off. As president of Student Council, Krista was overwhelmed with responsibility.

P.J. Lutz and Joseph Karwoski are ecstatic over the successful Convention. Both were key factors in producing the event.

Ruth Kline, chairman of the decorating committee, finishes her masterpiece. The committee's work was appreciated by everyone.

Student Council members Kim Tweedy and Jill Byers head the workshop about values. Many senior members were in charge of various workshops.

Mrs. Pat Vivo, a guest speaker for the Convention, relates a moving story to her audience. Being a popular motivational speaker, she travels the country to speak at many functions.

Senior member of the Student Council, Brock Hamula, psyches up the audience before the program begins. Brock added a touch of humor with his comical antics.

Vita-pup and the Believe to Achieve mascot participate in a workshop. Brian Binaut and Tim Henderson volunteered to do the jobs.

Band Shows Fiery Enthusiasm

The word "band" brings to mind images of music: rock and roll, jazz, country, folk, and the drum-filled cadence of a marching band. When any member of the C.C.H.S. marching band hears that word, different images come to mind: Long bus rides; cold, rainy, muddy games; summer camp, and hot chocolate during the third quarter.

This year's marching band had the distinction of being the last one under the direction of Rash Isenberg, who has been band director for 27 years. He will be greatly missed.

COLORGUARD: Angela Murvine, Patty Cornman, Dawn Nagle, Kathy Magyar, Stacy Walwro, Christa Traveny, Vicki Knopp, Joyce Moose, Traci Schweitzer, Tricia Bombach.

MAJORETTES: Leslie Urish, Charlene Younkin, Tracy Adams, Janie Leck, Janice Schmall, Germaine Johnson, Tammy Thomas, Michele Deetscreek, Dawn Wasser.

DRUM MAJORS: Senior Kelli Acker and Junior Renee Smith.

Freshman Greta Seymour knows how to protect her ears from the cold. The entire band suffered through many cold football games and competitions.

Caught in the act! Joyce Moose learned that modesty isn't always possible when travelling with the band.

Bands Sparkle In All Seasons

Once again, the pep and concert bands added music throughout the year. Not only did the pep band play at the pep rallies, but they also performed at the bonfire. The concert band held two concerts this year: at Christmas and in the spring. After the Christmas concert the band boosters held a banquet for all the members of the band. Since this was Rash Isenberg's last year as director, the band presented him with a plaque and a gold plated lighter for his ever present pipe.

Chorus Shines With Talent

The 1987-88 choruses, under the direction of Greg Nicoloff, were exceptional. Choruses was divided into three categories: girls', mixed, and ensemble. Each group was abundant with talent and they put this forth in various activities. A Christmas concert was held for the Rotary Club on December 23 during Christmasfest. A spring concert was held for the public April 24. Individual achievement was quite evident this year. Kelly Tsikalas received first chair at the county and districts chorus festivals and received third chair at Regionals. Kelly also qualified to go to States, an honor not bestowed on a CC singer since 1976.

Whether it was on a field, track, or in a pool, CCHS provided excitement for themselves and fans. No matter what their records were, these teams showed spirit and good sportsmanship.

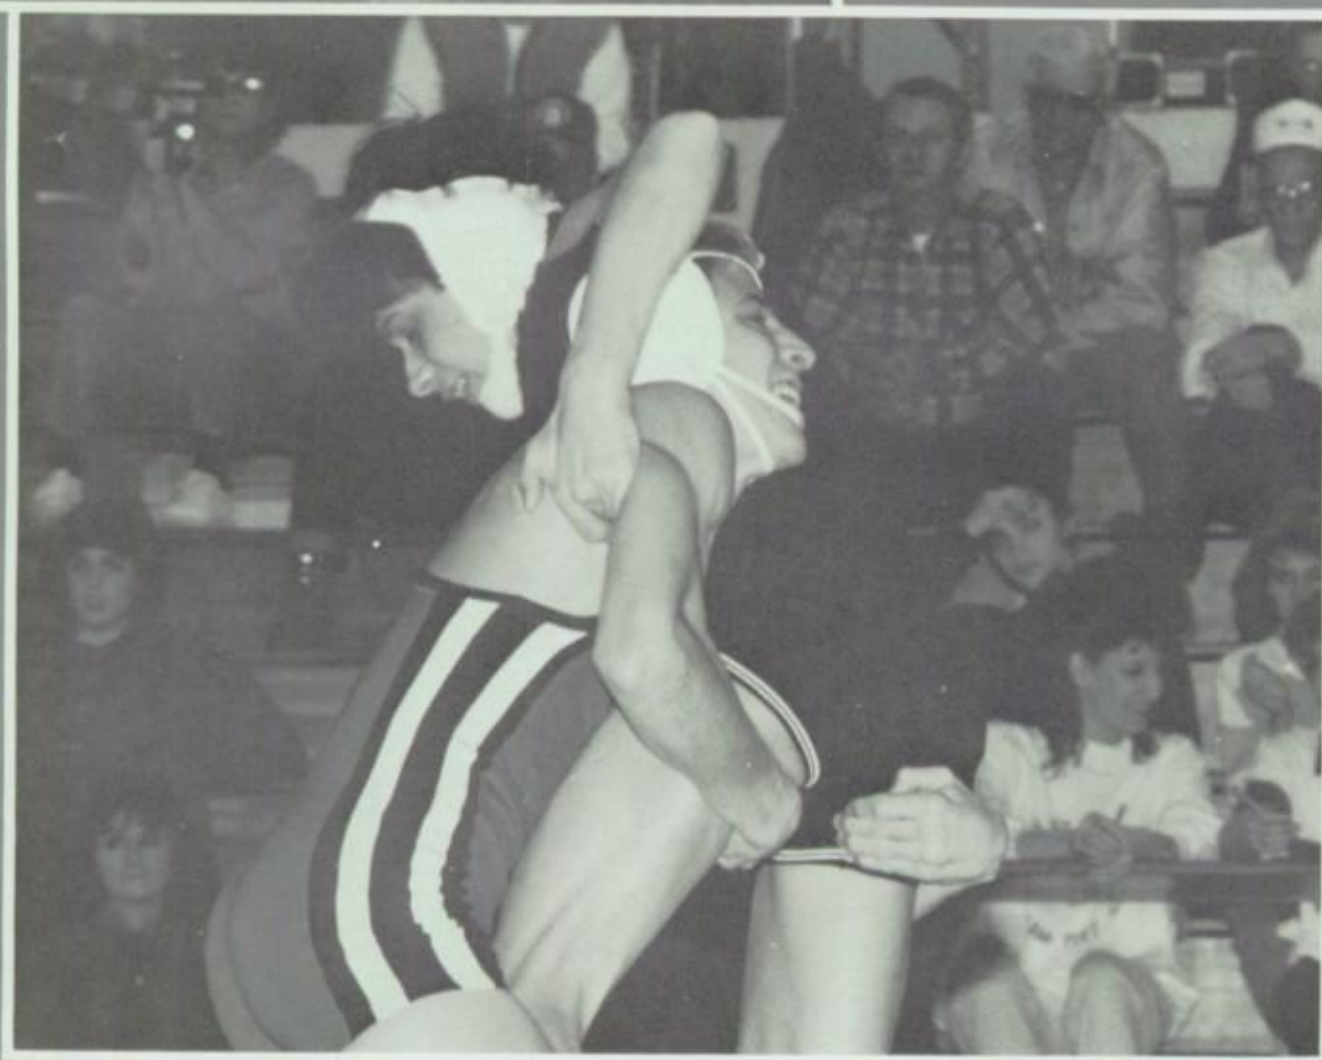

Throughout the different seasons, the spirit never died down; it was always shining. Encouragement from other students and coaches pushed these teams to work together no matter how the event turned out and to keep believing in themselves.

Cheerleaders Kindle School Spirit

This year was a unique one for the CCHS cheerleaders. Aside from getting a new adviser, Kathy Walters, many new rules were put into effect. Cheerleaders were not allowed to wear their skirts to school on the days of pep rallies, as they used to do in the past. Instead of going to several competitions a year, they are only permitted to go to one. Also, they were not allowed to go to away basketball games.

Behind all the glamour of cheerleading are the sweat, hard work, and injuries that go unnoticed. Cheerleaders sacrifice much of their time, not only after school, but also on weekends. Although most sports only last one nine weeks period, cheerleaders work all year long, often cheering three nights a week and practicing the other two.

Barb Davis and Stacy Henry braved the rain to cheer at the homecoming game. The JV squad cheered this game to replace the girls who were on the homecoming court.

Course Set Afire

With four returning lettermen, Chris Bortz, Joe Cavalier, Jim Sidone, and Shawn Simmers, the golf team had a strong base. The team had eight matches and ended the season with a 2-5-1 record. Pat Stock, coach, said, "The CCHS golf team is very small compared to other school's. We make the best of every practice and match.

The golf team practiced every day after school at the Country Club in Ebensburg. The members had to find their own ride to practice because the school does not provide transportation for them.

The golf team placed eighth in the George F. Wheeling Tournament held at the Sunnehanna Country Club and fourth at District VI sectionals. Coach Stock was very satisfied with this season's record and is looking forward to next season.

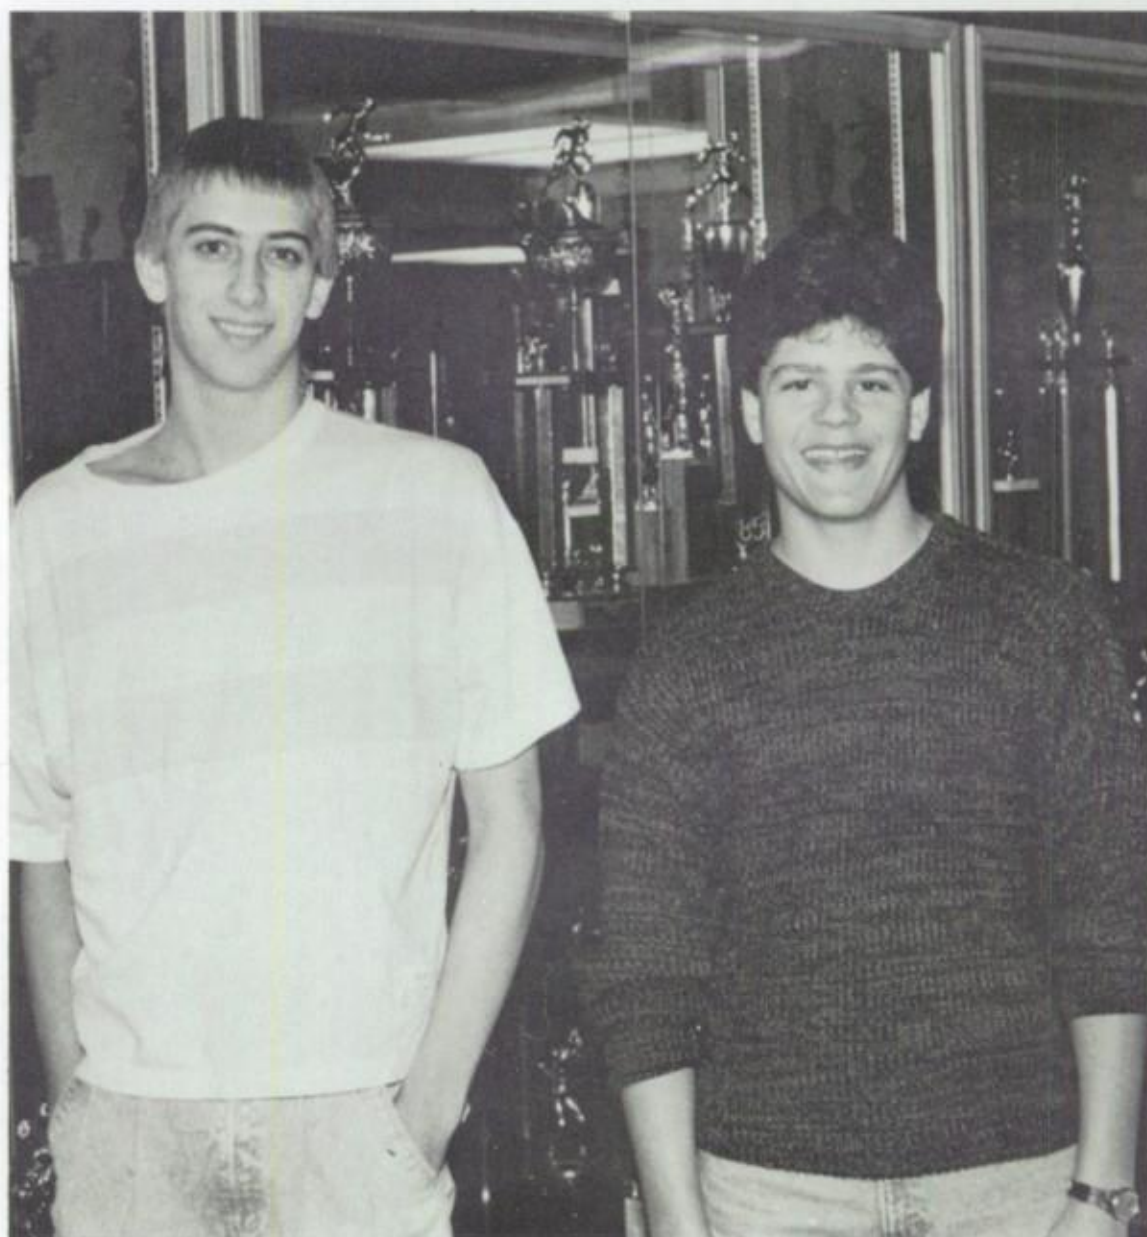

Shawn Simmers, Jim Sidone, Rick Pesarchick, Joe Cavalier, and Chris Bortz composed the nucleus of the golf team this year. These members qualified for Sectional competitions.

Joe Cavalier and Rick Pesarchick also qualified for state competition. Although Joe will be lost to graduation, Rick should help form a solid base for next year's team.

Athletes Pump Up

Weight training is an important part of C.C.'s extracurricular activities. It's not only a sport in itself, but it also prepares athletes for other sports' programs. In the fall, students weight train, while others lift for winter sports. In the winter, trainers and other athletes are involved in a strength training program with some emphasis on powerlifting. A powerlifting competition is held in March. This year Matt

Miller placed second in the 200lb. weight division, breaking the 500lb. dead-lift record by 510 lbs. Alan Scanlan placed 1st in his 155 weight division. Also, athletes of spring sports train with weights in the winter. During spring, athletes utilize the weight room. In the summer, the weightlifting facilities are open to athletes involved in fall sports.

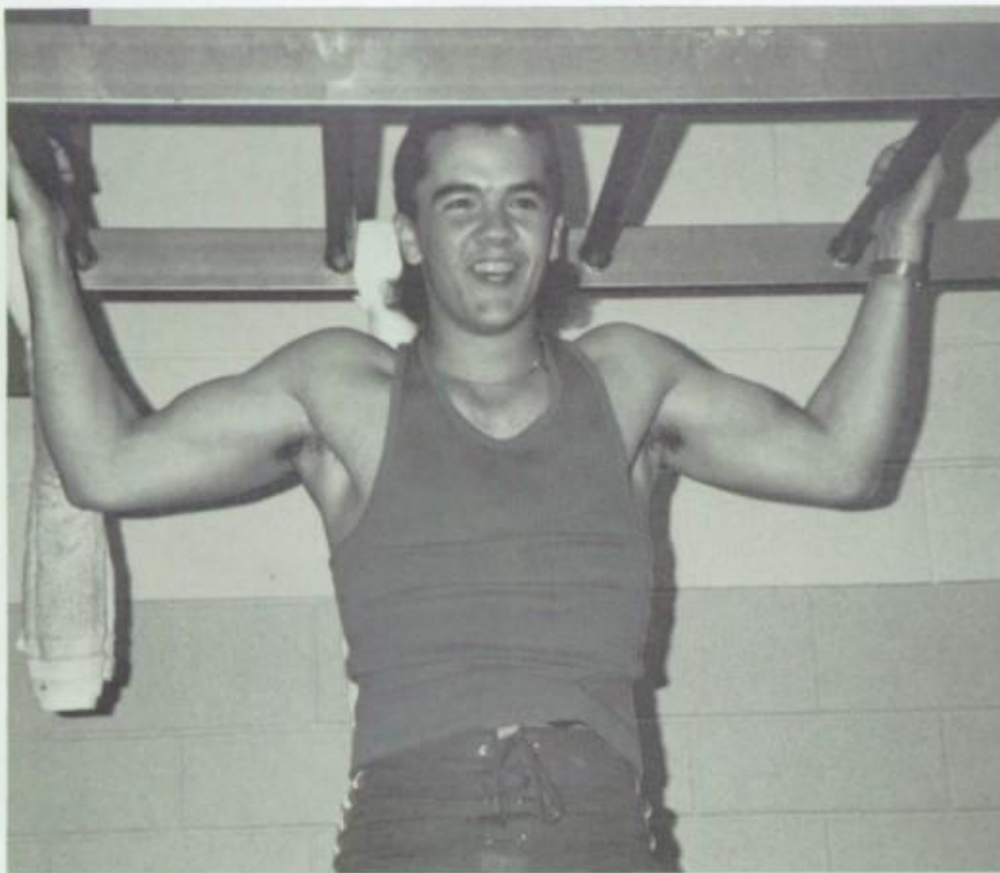

Senior Matt Miller tones his biceps with a common weightlifting exercise involving dumb-bells. Matt's persistence paid off, for he received second place in his weight class in this year's powerlifting competition.

George Acker works at the lat pull-down station in order to strengthen the muscles in his chest. George not only lifts weights during the summer in anticipation of football, but also lifts throughout the year to stay in good shape.

Sophomore Eric Mackall does pull-ups to tone the muscles throughout his arms. Eric is involved in the after-school weight-training program and participated in this year's powerlifting competition.

Participating in both football and track, Scott Estep uses the weightlifting facilities to their fullest potential. Scott, an active athlete, weightlifts all year to stay in top physical condition.

Runners Leave Blazing Trail

The 1987-88 boys' and girls' cross country teams both did exceptionally well again this year. Both squads were ideal examples of team, as well as individual, accomplishment.

The girls posted a 5-1 record en route to a second place regular season finish and a Central Western Conference championship. At the District VI race, they finished fourth, only five points from second place, and advanced to states. Sandie McKotch and Colleen Holsopple were named to the All-Conference team. Sophomore Ruth Kline was the conference champ, placed sixth in Districts and qualified for state competition where she had an admirable performance.

The boys' team ran to a 10-0 regular season championship as well as being Central Western Conference champs. They placed second at the District race which qualified them for the PIAA State meet. Here, competing against the best twenty-four teams in Pennsylvania, they finished tenth, beating Penns Valley, the only team that beat them at Districts. Drew Battista, Tony Palumbo, Gary Sloan, and Mike Baglio all placed on the All-Conference team.

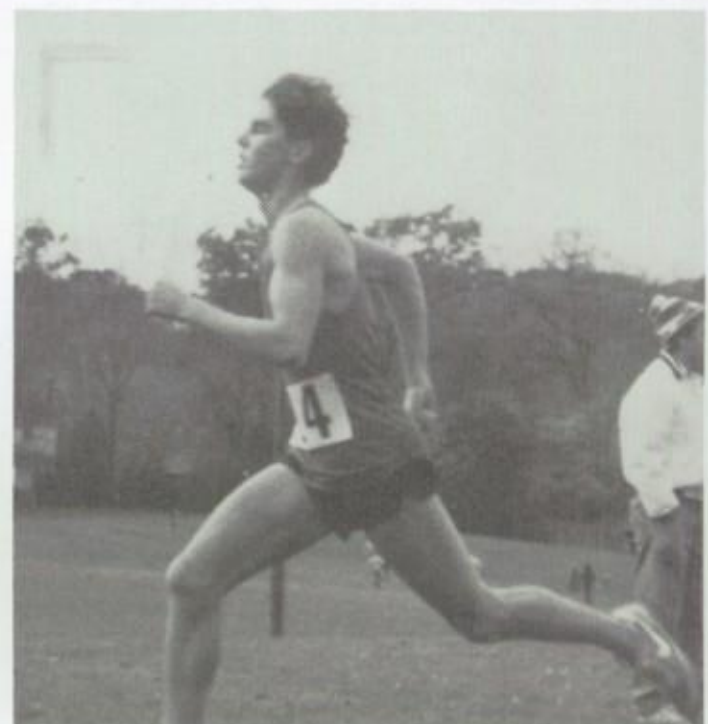

Sandie McKotch and Ruth Kline lead the Red Devil girls to a 16-47 victory over Bishop Carroll. Ruth won this race and also went on to states.

Sophomore Shawn Smith raises a victorious arm after his performance at Districts. Shawn ran varsity at Districts and States, but placed first in the All-Conference JV race.

Colleen Holsopple, the girls' lone senior, still shows a good start after four years. Juniors Sandie McKotch and Dionne McFadden hold promise for next year.

Senior Drew Battista strides down the final stretch at the District 6 meet. Drew placed 3rd and helped the guys qualify for states.

Theresa Swope catches her breath during the grueling course of the race. Theresa was honored, along with Greta Seymour and Jeanette Brush, by lettering her freshman year.

Jeff McBreen gains intensity by thinking about winning the race. He did win and led the Devils to a victory.

As Sam Brunatti points out the course to Mark Morrison, Doug Garland prepares for the race. The boys took the place of the varsity for that day.

Volleyball Warms Up For The Future

"This year was for rebuilding, so next year will be a good one," said Coach Diane Burda on the 1987 volleyball season. The JV closed their season with six wins and ten losses, while varsity ended theirs with five wins and eleven losses.

The girls had many memorable experiences during their infinite hours of practice, competition, and travel to and from the opposing schools.

"I'll never forget the time when we were cheating on "suicides" and had to run more as a result of being caught!" Heather Green reminisced.

"The girls thought that Mr. Alex and I couldn't play volleyball because we're coaches, so we proved them wrong by playing with them. I especially made my points through my serve," Coach Burda boasted.

With so many experienced players returning next year, the coaches anticipate a successful season.

Jennifer Hultman spikes the ball to #17 of the Ferndale Yellow Jackets. C.C. won two of the three games to become the victor.

Coach Alex jokes with the team during a time out. Coach Alex, as well as Coach Burda, was a positive influence on the team.

Missy DeRubis is ready to spike the ball at the opposition. C.C. was victorious in this game against Ferndale.

Mimi Battista returns the ball while Missy DeRubis looks on approvingly. Mimi and Missy were both active members of the team.

Candy Brocht bumps the ball for another step toward victory. Candy was the only returning senior on the team this year.

Missy DeRubis, trying to return the ball to the opposing team, does not quite make her volley. Although she did not make this point, the Devils won.

Team Sizzles With Talent

"The season was very disappointing," said Coach Ken Bussard about the varsity record of 5 and 5. The outcome of the games usually were determined in the last quarter or the last few minutes. Randy Seymour said, "This year was very discouraging. We should have won more games than what we did." Even though the record was 5 and 5, the players had more potential and talent than was shown by the record. Alan Scanlan was an important person on our defense, but at the middle of the season, he had a knee injury. Randy Seymour passed for over 1,000 yards. Jeff Koss could have run for 1,000 yards but had a knee injury which kept him out for part of the season. Another important player was senior Neil Harteis, who also had an injury, a broken wrist. The young football players know how it is to lose by a field goal or touchdown in the last two minutes of the game. From that experience, they will excel and have the mental and physical experience for the upcoming season. Also, this allows Coach Bussard to look forward to the physical experience for the upcoming season. Also, this allows Coach Bussard to look forward to the season with a positive attitude.

Alan Scanlan, Randy Seymour, and Ray Wywras stand on the sidelines while watching the defense. Even though Central Cambria had many injuries, their record was respectable.

Coach Bussard, standing in the rain, watches his team on the field as they win the Homecoming Game. Central defeated Bedford 12-6.

Brock Hamula, Dom Glavach, Greg Reese, and Lee Rummell watch the offense in action. Coach Bussard will lose many lettermen due to graduation, but much talent remains.

Soakin' wet and cold, Jared Lambie walks off the sloppy field. Despite the bad conditions, CC won the game.

Swimmers Make Water Steam

"We're not slime" were the words heard at the beginning of a CCHS swim meet. This year's swim teams saw much success. The girls' team had an impressive record of 7-3 -- a record not held by any swim team recently.

Janel Behe, in particular, showed great determination and ability. At districts, Janel swam her personal best and again established the school record in the backstroke.

Pam Balough qualified for districts in three events: 50 yard freestyle, 100 yard freestyle, and the medley relay.

Despite the lack of participation individually, the boys' team members excelled throughout the season. Senior Andy Grata, juniors Mike Baglio and John Wojcik, and freshman Tim Thrower all qualified for districts.

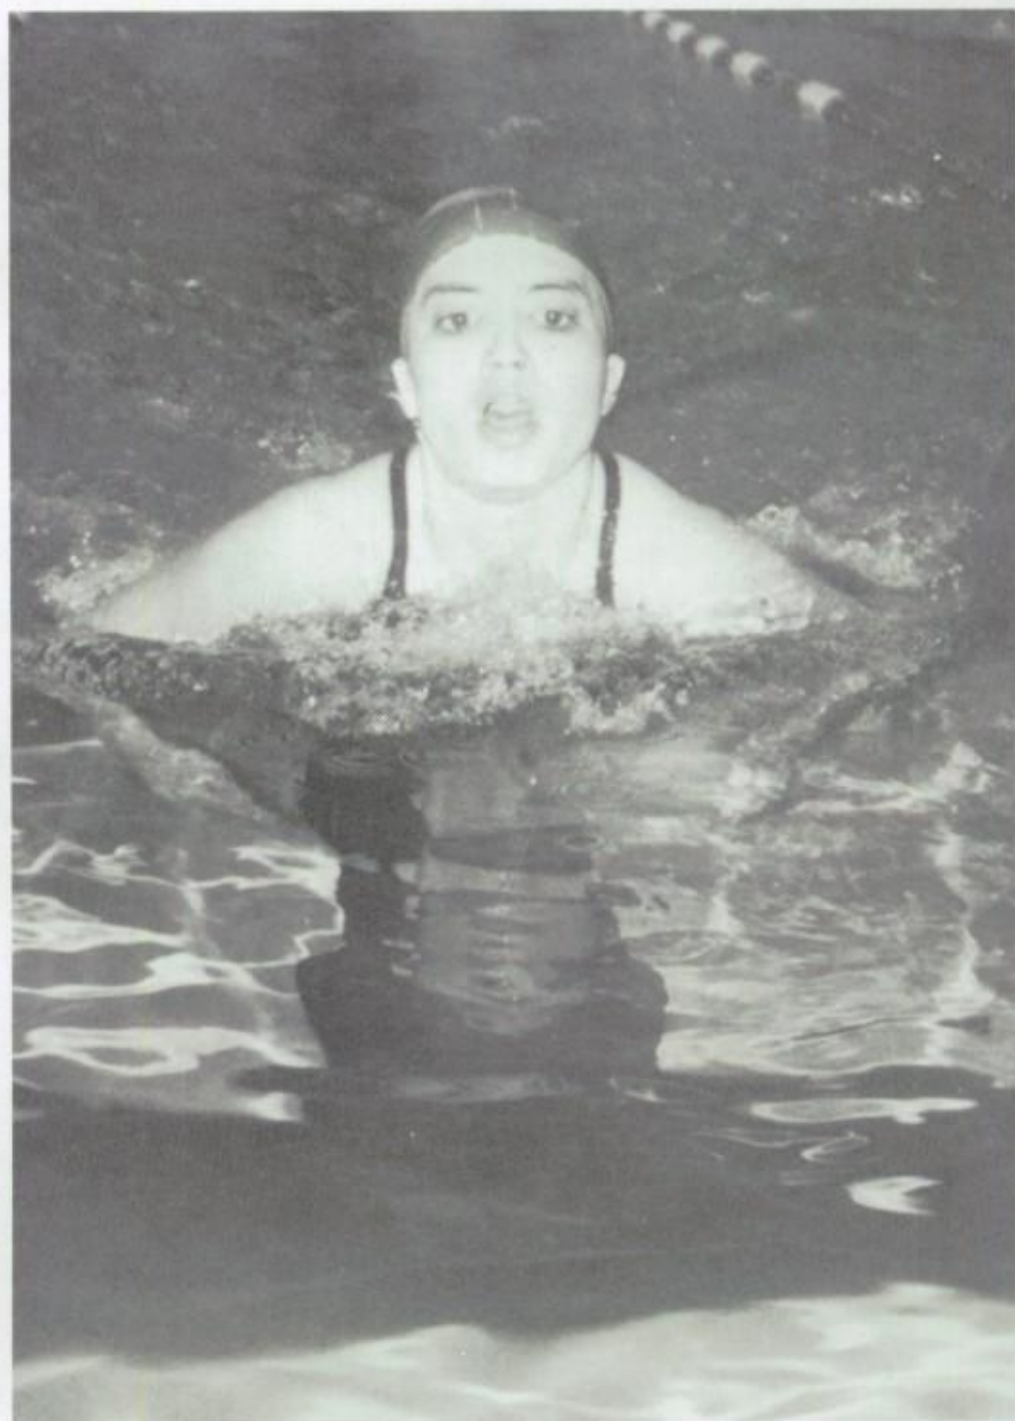

The success of this year's team was due in part by the addition of many talented underclassmen. These individuals have shown great promise for coming years.

Tim Thrower helps Mike Baglio stretch out before their last meet. The boys' team had a rough season, but the swimmers did well individually.

Showing her skills at breast stroke, Amy Jones finishes her last length. Amy is one of the three freshmen who made it to district competition.

Janel Behe takes a well-deserved break from one of the many practices of the season. Janel finished with an impressive record of 10-0 and a second in districts.

Jennifer DeBalli checks her finishing position after her 100 meter breaststroke heat. Jennifer fared well this season, winning 9 out of 10 races in which she competed.

Mike Baglio takes a breath of air before making his turn. Mike, a junior, had a fine season and qualified for post-season district competition.

Individuals Illuminate Season

CCHS's 1987-88 wrestling year was marked by many outstanding individual and team accomplishments. Individually, Phil DeLosh became the first Central Cambria wrestler ever to qualify for PIAA state competition. Also, seniors Ray Wyrwas and Rick Bauer were undefeated through most of the season. Coach Tom Vaux won, not only his 200th career win, but also his 100th win at CC.

Overall, the team had a record of 9-5-1, which placed them fifth out of nineteen in the Intercounty Conference. In the district, our grapplers placed seventh out of fourteen teams.

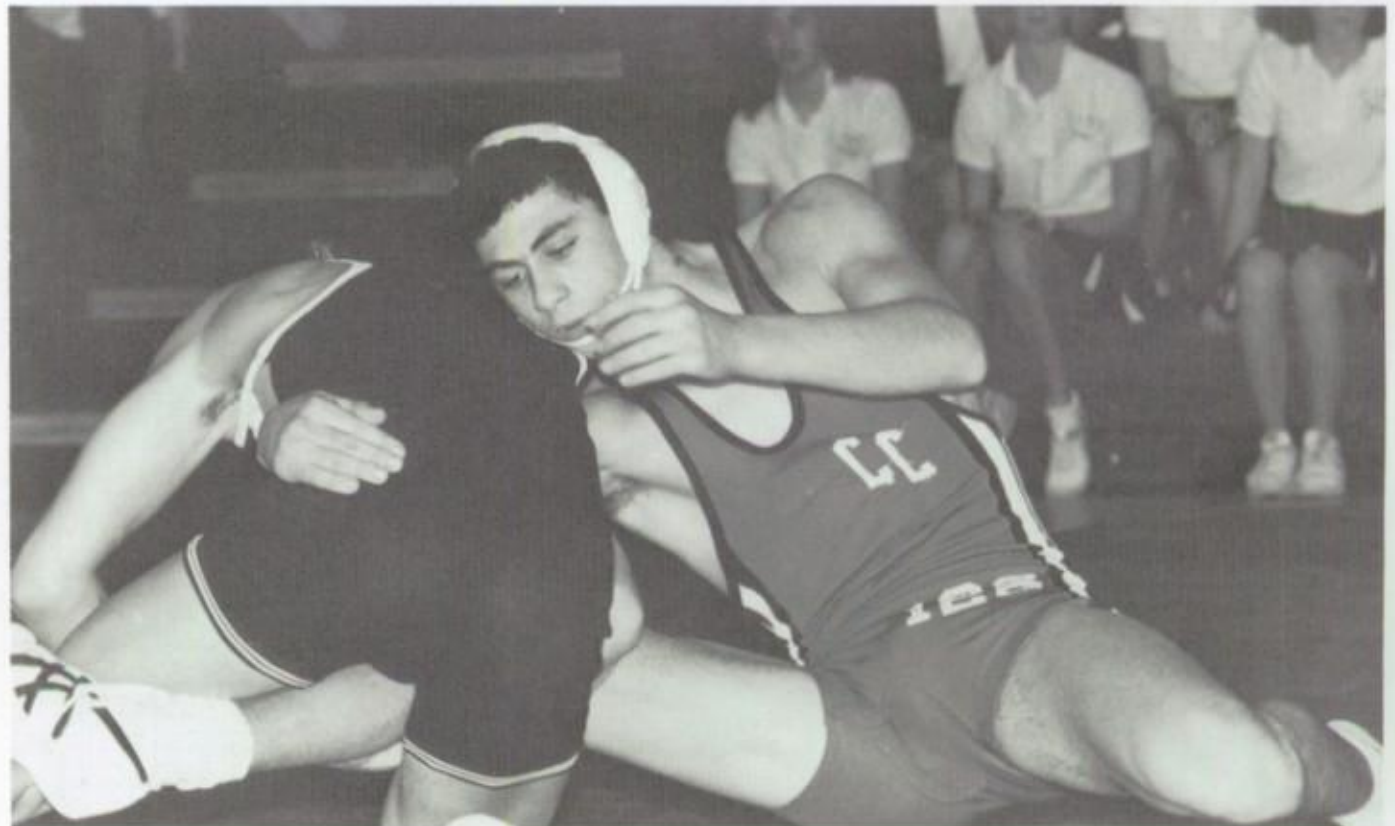

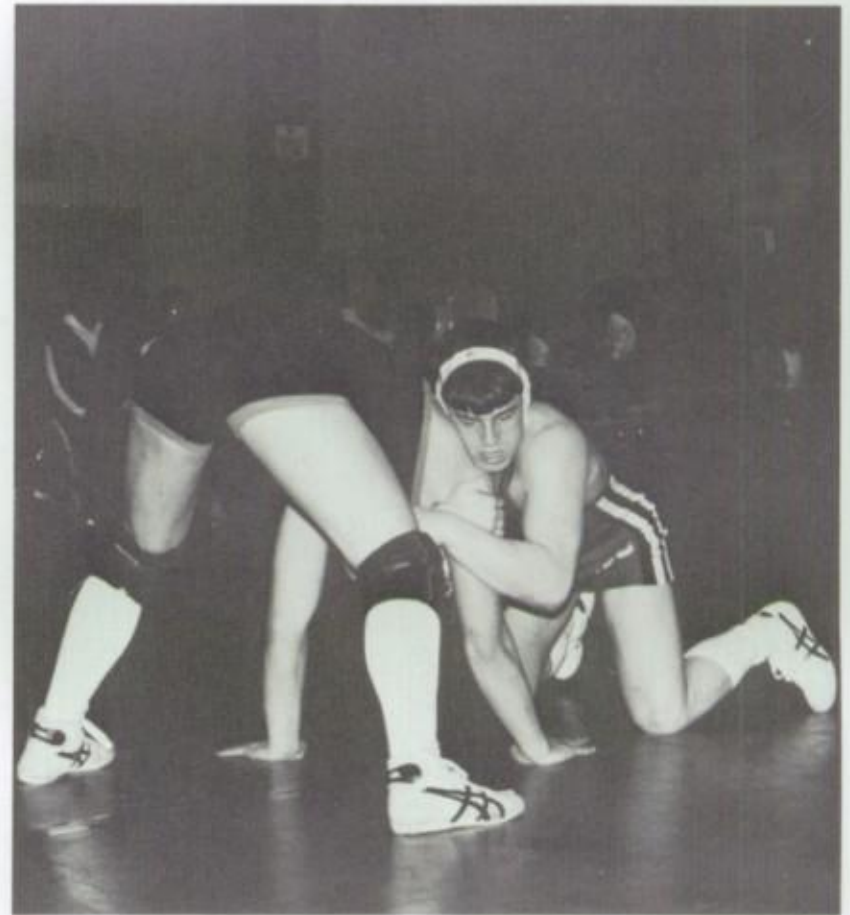

Mike Murin congratulates fellow wrestler Phil DeLosh on another win. Phil finished 23-5.

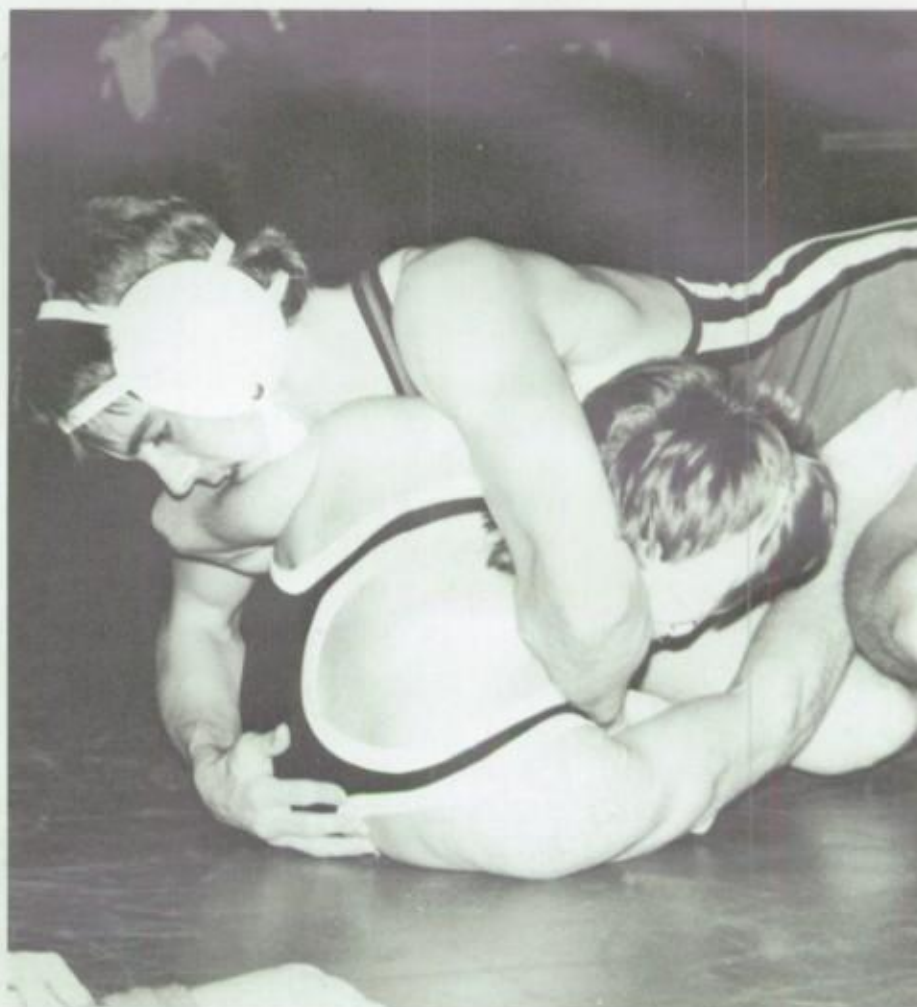

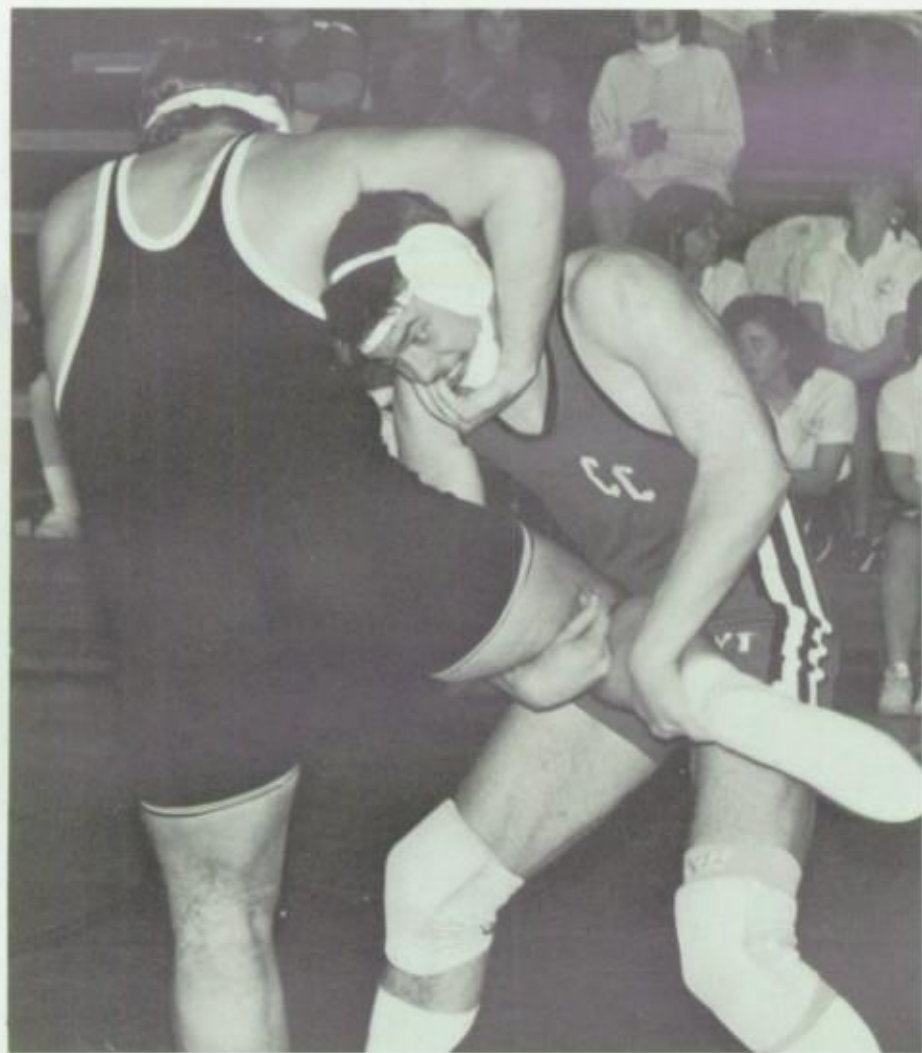

Mike Harteis starts the match in the down position. Mike has been a varsity wrestler since his freshman year.

Phil DeLosh goes for the front cradle. Phil ended the season by placing ninth in the state.

Jim Tsikalas struggles for the two point reversal. An injury sidelined Greek before the end of the season.

Ray Wyrwas goes for the take down against Blairsville. Ray placed fourth in the district.

Senior Rick Bauer attempts to roll his opponent. Rick was one of the most successful wrestlers on the team.

Coach Tom Vaux uses his years of experience to guide his wrestlers. The season marked his 200th career win.

Basketball Teams Radiate With Spirit

The 1987 boys' and girls' basketball seasons were of serious contrast. While the boys were led mainly by seniors and a few juniors, the girls relied completely on underclassmen.

The boys finished with a successful 15-7 record and an Admiral Peary Tournament championship. In the District playoffs, they won at Tyrone but lost a tough battle to Brookville. Senior center Joe Vitko scored his thousandth point in the last game of the regular season.

A highly inexperienced girls' team finished at 7-14. Having no seniors meant that many younger ladies would see varsity action. With a young team that now has both the experience and motivation for being successful, coach Jana Klezek is looking forward to next season.

Joe Vitko goes up for a shot for the Red Devils. Joe was selected to play in the Big John Riley Tournament at St. Francis College.

Quick on his feet, Jamie Fether attempts to gain control over the loose ball before his opponent can. Jamie was an outstanding, aggressive player, especially with rebounding.

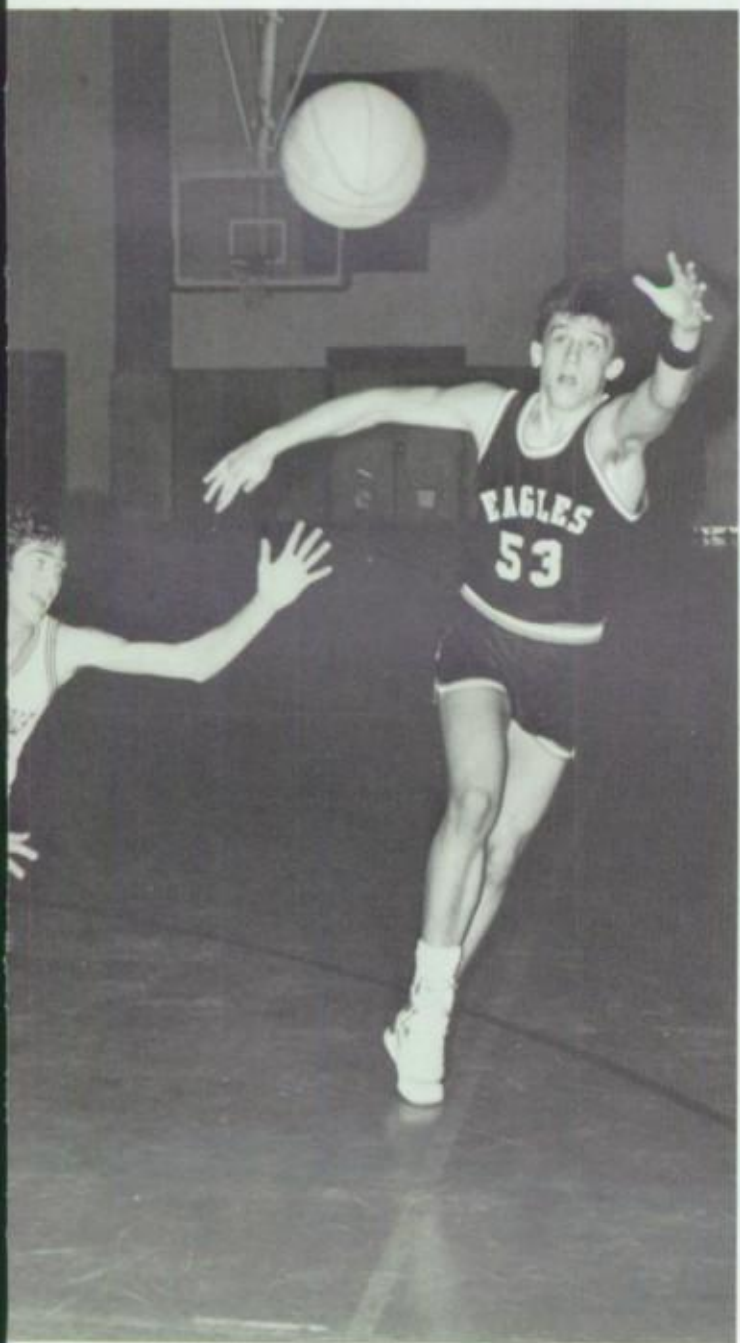

Missy DeRubis blocks her opponent from getting the ball to her teammate. A great defensive player, Missy led the team with steals and assists.

Candace Davidson fights for a jump ball. Candace was an important factor in every game, leading the team in rebounding and scoring.

Sizzling Pitching Leads Team

Under the direction of coaches Pat Stock and Diana Burda, the softball team had a productive 1988 season. They ended their regular season 12-1 and continued on to Districts. "I was surprised at how well the girls were doing. They weren't expected to do half as well as they did," Coach Burda explained. "They are a very young, inexperienced team. Georgine Johns was the only returning letterman and Lori Skibo was the only returning senior."

Georgine Johns was an excellent pitcher, being the fastest in the league. She even broke the school record in strike-outs with nineteen in the game against Ligonier.

Coach Burda also foresees an extremely good 1989 season since the girls will return with more experience.

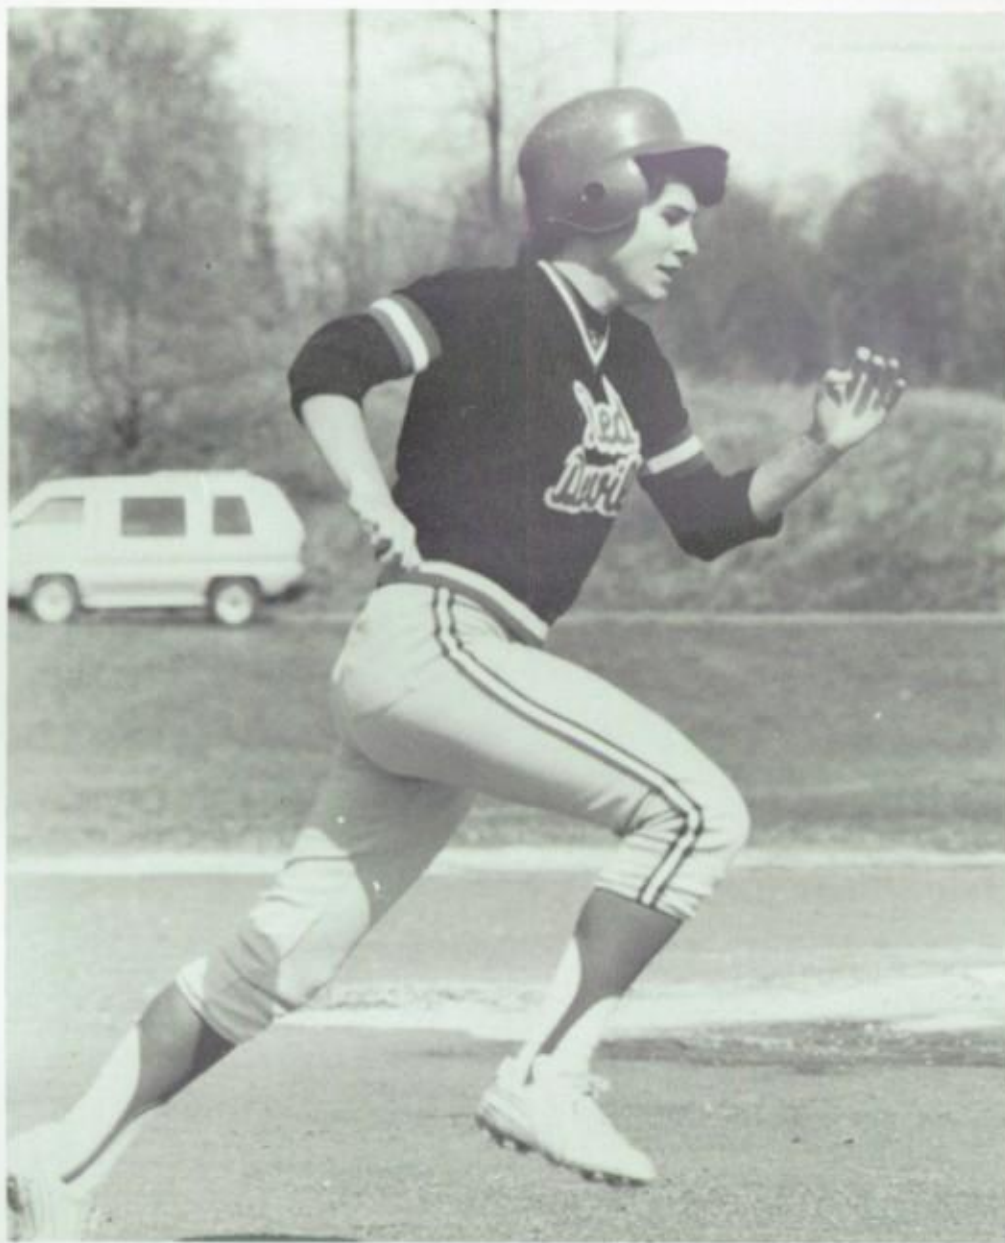

Catcher Kelly Cordoro waits for the pitch. Even though Kelly was only a freshman, she led in many statistics for the team.

Third baseman Stacey Palenscar throws out an opposing runner during a varsity game against Northern Cambria. Stacey helped the team win the game 4-0.

Missy DeRubis sprints to first base after her hit. Missy played second base consistently and was a good offensive producer.

Georgine Johns releases another sure-fire strike. Georgine broke the school record for the most strikeouts in a game with nineteen.

Jamie Homan shows good form in her swing. Jamie was a versatile team member, playing any position where she was needed.

Hot Bats Produce Winning Season

The 1987-88 Red Devil baseball team enjoyed another winning season. The team finished 10-4 overall and 9-3, which tied them for second place, in the Eastern Division of the Tri-county League. The season was full of team success as well as individual accomplishments. Pitcher Joe Vitko went 3-0 for the year including a twenty strikeout performance against Bishop Carroll. Sophomore Mike Holtz also pitched very well with a no-hitter at Penn Cambria. Seniors Joe Cavalier, Brian Cobaugh, and Brad Cooper were important parts in the offensive attack of the Devils. Don Bachota led the team in home runs while Mike Holtz, Joe Vitko, Bryan Grove, and Tim Braniff also had homers for the year.

In summation, Coach McHenry commented that this season was one of his most memorable. "It was a privilege to work with such a talented group of seniors. These seniors will be greatly missed, but their accomplishments and the examples they set will help set a winning attitude for future teams here at Central Cambria."

Senior Joe Cavalier awaits the pitch from an opposing pitcher. Joe proved to be an important member of the team at the plate as well as in the field.

The varsity infielders gather on the mound between innings to encourage pitcher Joe Vitko. This ritual proved successful as Joe went 3-0 for the year.

Sophomore Mike Holtz strides into a fastball in the Red Devils first game. Mike had a home run in the game and went 2 for 3.

Second baseman Bryan Grove leaps into the air and successfully catches the ball. Because of the performance of Bryan and others, the Red Devils beat Penn Cambria 4-1.

Shortstop Brian Cobaugh rounds first base after hitting a single up the middle. Brian was one of the best percentage hitters on the team.

Teams Set Track And Field Ablaze

CCHS boys' track had an excellent season. Again this year, the Devils won the Mountain Conference Championship. This was an exciting victory because they defeated Somerset, who had defeated them twice this season.

The Devils were strong in both track and field events. The three relay teams dominated during meets. All runners made great showings and brought in letter points. In the field events, Bob Williams and Matt Miller contributed much in the throwing events, while Jamie Fether had a fine rookie season in the jumping events.

The girls' track team ended with a 2-8 record but still had a respectable showing. Many freshmen contributed to the team including Theresa Swope and Sirena Stormer in distance and Aimee Bouch and Tracey Leonard in sprint. High point earners for the girls were Colleen Holsopple, Amy Benoni, Shannon Keating, Stacy Sheehan, Laurie Stoltz, and Ruth Kline, who also qualified for Districts in four events.

Ruth Kline sprints down the last stretch for the 400 relay team. A valuable asset, Ruth dominated during meets and was a district qualifier.

Girls' track member Tammy Hrapchak warms up to throw the discus. This being her first year in track, she performed well and impressed her coaches.

Junior Jamie Fether reaches the long distance of forty feet in his triple jump attempt. Jamie also competed in the long jump and high jump events.

Pole vaulting, Mike Baglio clears the bar by inches. Mike was a consistent point earner in dual meets as well as invitationals.

Anchoring the 400, Colleen Hol-sopple rounds the fourth turn to the finish line. Colleen was one of the few seniors who contributed her talent to the girls' team.

Craig Learn smoothly clears hurdles during a track meet. While hosting a track meet, he and the team lived up to their reputation as the powerhouse of the Mountain Conference.

The phrase "practice makes perfect" can be applied to many situations from the piano lessons your mother forces you to take to the Pythagorean Theorem. Oddly enough, this also applies to the situation of the senior class. After four years of development that began with the freshmen magazine drive, it all ends with graduation. There may not be a large age difference between freshmen and seniors, but the level of maturity is noticable. Just as underclassmen years are spent warming up for the senior year, high school is a practice run for life. After four years, the practice has paid off with a united class; a class that has a sense of spirit, a knowledge of their beginnings, and a sense of hope for the future.

Hot Stuff

Honors Make Seniors Shine

Every year, each academic department chooses two seniors to receive the departmental awards. Again this year, the Central Cambria faculty honored with these awards its "best" students. The recipients of these awards undoubtedly showed exceptional talent and dedication in their respective departments, both in the classroom and on outside projects. The winners were truly enthusiastic and disciplined in their academic work. Besides the departmental award winners, numerous other seniors were honored for their dedication to their studies. Eleven seniors graduated with first honors, while thirty-one graduated with second honors. The Principal's Award was presented to all seniors maintaining a 3.2 average this year. Several extracurricular awards, such as the Albert O'Connor and VFW Awards, were presented to seniors who showed exceptional skill and determination in a particular field outside the classroom. Through it all, this seniors showed they had the spirit and talent to make their years at Central Cambria the best!

Loss Saddens Students

On April 17, 1988, the CCHS student body was saddened by the loss of Jim Bouch, who lost his six month bout with cancer. Friends and family were filled with waves of grief along with memories of his purple hightops and shades, his ridiculous jokes, and his outgoing personality.

Jim was active in many sports, including water and snow skiing. One of his best friends, Lynn Seliga remembers one event in particular. "Last year a group of friends and I went water skiing and tubing at Raystown. Jim was being pulled and jerked around on a tube behind the boat. The only reason Jim stopped was because he was so worn out. When Jim got out of the water the only word that came out of his mouth was 'awesome.'"

Jim was a big fan of the Christian rock group Stryper. While in the hospital for treatment, Jim received two phone calls from the group, along with photographs, autographs, plaques, and a Bible.

We will remember Jim always as a great friend and a special person, loved by all.

Seniors Choose Hot Favorites

This year's Senior Favorites are a mixed group. They come from totally different parts of the senior class. They all have one thing in common, though: each is considered a good representative of a certain quality or ability.

1. MOST SHY: Beth Kaschalk, Gary Buck
2. NICEST SMILE: Stephanie LaJudice, Darren Rech
3. CHOICE OF SISTER/BROTHER: Melissa Lloyd, Scott Estep
4. MOST ATHLETIC: Colleen Holsopple, Joe Vitko
5. MOST COURTEOUS: Linda Lauer, Brock Hamula
6. BEST PERSONALITY: JoLynn Bono, Randy Seymour
7. MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED: Kelli Acker, Pete DeBalli
8. MOST TALENTED: Kelly Tsikalas, Kent Kimmel
9. MOST STUDIOUS: Elaine Sava, Jamie Davis

The Flame Still Burns

The spark that ignited the flame of enthusiasm doesn't die out with the end of the 1987-88 school year. The warmth of CCHS leaves with the graduating seniors and is perpetuated by the underclassmen, who will in turn pass on the tradition to future classes.
